
Blood doners sought

Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston and Chaffee General Hospital could have the most complete and reliable blood coverage available from the American Red Cross if the goal of 300 volunteer donors is met Monday and Tuesday. According to Albert Baker, the technician at the Sikeston hospital, shown here working in his laboratory, Summer participation in the program is timely, since the supply of blood from college students — a major source — is diminished and there is a greater need for blood because of highway accidents during the vacation season. Meloy killers arrested

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Palestinian guerrillas and their leftist Lebanese allies announced the arrest today of a number of persons suspected of killing U.S. Ambassador Francis E. Meloy Jr., his economic counselor and their Lebanese driver.

Police sources said Al Fatah Palestinian guerrillas arrested five members of the Lebanese Socialist Revolutionary Organization, an urban guerrilla group that seized the Beirut branch of the Bank of America in 1973, took 56 hostages and killed an American and four Lebanese before police stormed the building.

Meloy, 59, Robert Waring, 58, and Zoheir Maghrabi were shot Wednesday while driving through the no-man's land between the Moslem and Christian sectors of Beirut.

The announcement by the joint Palestinian-leftist Lebanese command did not identify the suspects, say how many there were or give their nationalities. However, it implied they were Arabs and said they would be turned over to the pan-Arab peacekeeping force which the Arab League proposes to send to Lebanon.

U.S. officials in Washington said they believed the killers were from a Moslem fringe group who hoped to unify squabbling Arab factions by provoking American intervention in the Lebanese civil war.

Yasir Arafat, the chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization, and Kamal Jumblatt, the leader of the leftist Lebanese Moslems, both condemned the assassinations. They warned the Christians not to try to use them to sabotage Arab peacemaking efforts.

Officials in Washington again reviewed the standby plans for evacuating the 1,450 Americans still in Lebanon, but State Department officials said the United States would not "cut and run."

However, the British Embassy urged Britons to consider leaving and said it was organizing a motor convoy out of the country.

The helicopter carrier Guadalcanal and four other U.S. Navy ships were 400 miles off the coast of Lebanon. Three U.S. transport planes and four helicopters were standing by at a British air base on Cyprus to help should the evacuation order be issued.

President Ford told reporters at the White House that the "United States will not be deterred from its search for peace by these murders." He said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had been ordered to "continue our intensive efforts" to find a solution to the Lebanese war.

Ford told Kissinger to ask retired Ambassador L. Dean Brown to return to Beirut as a special envoy. Brown filled in for ailing Ambassador G. McMurtry Godley earlier this year and established good relations with several of the warring factions. Meloy replaced him in May.

Meloy and Waring were captured and killed while on their way from the Embassy in the Moslem sector of Beirut.

Arraignment June 23

Garrison must stand trial

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) — Arraignment has been set June 23 for Dr. Norman A. Garrison Jr., a Corinth, Miss., physician, charged with the murder of his former wife, Lee Ann Garrison.

Special Judge Jimmie Trammell, magistrate of Stoddard County, found Wednesday in Dunklin County Magistrate Court here that there was probable cause for the charge against Garrison.

Garrison, 34, was one of 17 witnesses who took the stand in nine hours of testimony Wednesday. He denied being in Kennett at the time of the killing. He also denied hiring someone to kill his former wife.

He has contended he was on a houseboat in Mississippi, when Mrs. Garrison was found May 8, 1974, shot in the back of the head. No weapon was ever found.

Garrison was charged with murder the day the body was discovered.

The Garrisons had separated in January 1974 and agreed to a divorce settlement in June that called for, in addition to payment of support for four children, payment of $100,000 in alimony to Mrs. Garrison.

Much of the testimony at Wednesday's preliminary hearing concerned police investigation of the crime. Among those testifying were Mrs. Garrison's father, a daughter and a boyfriend.

Physical evidence linking Garrison to the killing includes a fingerprint identified as that of Garrison, blood of Garrison's type, a bloody footprint similar to Garrison's and a surgical glove. The fingerprint was found on a fence in blood corresponding to Mrs. Garrison's type.

Garrison surrendered to Missouri authorities May 7, after halting the two-year fight against extradition. His surrender came after the Mississippi Supreme Court and a federal district court rejected pleas to block extradition.

Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker, assisted at the prosecution's table by H. Max Hilfiker, assistant prosecutor, represented the state.

About 60 persons were in the Dunklin County Circuit Courtroom for the hearing, and 30 to 50 persons, subpoenaed by the state and the defense, milled in the hallways of the courthouse's second floor after the defense requested at the onset for a rule excluding witnesses before their testimony.

Charles Larry "Yogi" Briggs of Portageville was the first state's witness, testifying that he last saw the attractive blonde divorcee whom he had been dating about three months at 12:45 a.m. Sept. 8, as she was preparing to leave this apartment to drive home to Kennett.

Briggs said he and Mrs. Garrison had a date for 8 p.m. the night of Sept. 7, and had spent the evening going to a Sikeston shopping center, returning to Billy Fisher's Lounge in Portageville where he consumed about four or five beers while she drank a non-alcoholic beverage usually made for children, and then returned to his apartment about 11 p.m., where the two went to bed together.

After Mrs. Garrison returned to her Kennett home, Briggs said he received a telephone call from her at 1:45 a.m., as expected, notifying him she had arrived home safely.

On cross examination, Briggs said his date had told him she was returning home at that time

Donations needed to help blood bank reach goal

The most complete and reliable blood coverage available will be offered patients at the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston and the Chaffee General hospital if Red Cross goal of 300 volunteer donors are met on June 21 and 22, a blood laboratory technician said today.

Albert Baker, the technician at the Sikeston hospital, also praised the speed with which Red Cross blood could be delivered to the hospital. This is a factor in the recovery of a patient and in some instances may save his life. Even rare types of blood can be delivered rapidly from headquarters of the regional program in St. Louis, other hospitals in the region or by tapping the nationwide resources of Red Cross.

Red Cross blood already is available at the Sikeston and Chaffee hospitals in anticipation of a successful donor participation in the continuing program and to Mississippi County residents through another program. If a resident of Mississippi County is a donor, his family is covered if it needs Red Cross blood. In the past much of the blood needed by the local hospital was purchased from a commercial source.

"We've had no conflicts and have obtained blood in four or five hours from the regional headquarters," Baker explained. "We have received everything we have asked."

"The blood is safer than that obtained from commercial sources although we haven't had as high an incidence of hepatitis as in other places."

Hepatitis is an inflamation of the liver.

Commercial sources buy blood from donors, while Red Cross blood comes from unpaid volunteers.

"There have been shortages experienced in Sikeston in the past. We have asked radio stations to broadcast appeals for donors," Baker explained. "We have telephoned for donors after first contacting the hospital personnel if the needed blood could be matched in that way."

The Red Cross expects the hospitals in the participating blood program counties of Scott and Cape Girardeau to use 5,000 units of blood this year and, according to Baker, the St. Louis headquarters processed 16,000 units of blood last year.

The Red Cross also provides any kind special test that cannot be performed locally, Baker said.

Summer participation in the blood donor program is timely, since the supply from colleges, a major source, is diminished. There is a greater need for blood because of highway accidents during the vacation season.

Carl R. Nolen

Nolen to be Direct Line guest

ESSEX — The June Direct Line program will be held Friday at the Richland High School cafeteria.

The Direct Line meetings, presented monthly by State Rep. C. F. Cline, D-Sikeston, begin at 7:30 p.m., and this month's program will feature the director of the Missouri Department of Conservation, Carl R. Noren.

The meeting is free and open to the public, and is designed to bring an exchange of ideas and information between Missouri's policy makers and the public. Cline says area residents will want to attend and ask questions about: fishing and hunting licenses, deer and turkey hunting, why there is so little public land for outdoor recreation in Southeast Missouri, conservation agents (game wardens), the new Big Lake in Mississippi County, Duck Creek or any other question relating to the Department of Conservation.

Noren has been director since January 1967. He is a professional wildlife biologist with experience, varying from research and management of wild life to high- level coordination of management efforts among resource conservation agencies.

He began his professional career with the Conservation Department in 1940 as a biologist and project leader and was transferred shortly afterward to the department's central office to work in the planning and execution of the successful and now-famous Missouri deer restoration program.

He served in the Army as an enlisted man and as an officer from 1941 through 1945. Following military service he was assigned to broad- scale

Man beaten robbed near Bloomfield

ADVANCE — A Bloomfield man was beaten and robbed Wednesday night near here, the Stoddard County sheriff's department said today, but few details are available.

The department said Hugh Deberry of Bloomfield apparently tried to run from the robbers into somebody's yard, and that about $125 was taken from his wallet.

The incident was reported to the sheriff's department about 5:30 a.m. today.

Deberry was treated and released at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department said two subjects will be arrested later today in connection with the robbery after a warrant is issued but that she knew no more information about the incident.

Gravel roads raise more than dust

The dust clouds raised by traffic on the gravel roads in the new recreational complex near Sikeston Memorial Airport are having the same effect on baseball fans as a poor call by the umpire.

Park patrons want something down, but all remedies seemingly are financially out of the city's grasp, according to City Manager Charles Church.

Church said city officials and the park board are concerned about the problem, but at this time the city does not have the funds to solve the problem.

Dust clouds are especially thick before and after the games, when traffic is heaviest.

The cost of paving the roads and parking lots is $108,000, Church said. The total park budget is only $88,000, of which $20,000 is a subsidy from the city's general fund.

When the park was designed, plans called for paved roads, but inflation and cutbacks forced the city to eliminate the paving, Church said.

There are less permanent solutions to the problem, he said, but each has drawbacks.

One solution is watering down the roads but Church said the city does not have a water truck capable of handling the large amounts of water that would have to be put on the roads daily.

Another solution would be oiling the road. Each application of oil would cost $5,050, Church said. The roads would have to be oiled three or four times during the summer.

Some Little League commissioners have approached the city about the possibility of an extra tax levy to finance the paving of the road. Church said that if there was sufficient interest, the measure could be placed before the voters.

The complex is a good basic facility which is an asset to the community, Church said. The city's primary obligation is maintaining what the city has, he said.

2 shot in argument

Two young Sikeston men were shot shortly before 11 p.m. Wednesday during an argument at 307 Westgate St.

Oscar Kent, said to be in his 20's, was found in the kitchen of the home of his estranged wife. He was shot in the right ear and the left shoulder.

Kent was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital, then transferred to Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis, where he was reported still alive this morning, according to Police Detective Lt. Jack Patterson.

While police were at the hospital emergency room with Kent, the second man, Harold Tidwell, also in his 20's of Marston, was brought in by his brother.

Tidwell had been shot in the hip and elbow, according to Patterson. Tidwell was admitted to the hospital.

Patterson said the two apparently shot it out during an argument in the home. He said that as of this morning, he was not sure what the men had been arguing about.

Kent was shot with a .22-caliber rifle, and Tidwell was shot with a .38-caliber pistol. Both guns belonged to Kent, Patterson said.

No arrests have been made, Patterson added.

3 arrested for stealing

CHARLESTON — Felony charges of stealing over $50 were filed Wednesday against Tommy Wayne Jones, 23, of Rutledge Route Two, his brother, Clarence Lee Jones, 20, and Adam Eugene Wright, 20, of Charleston. The three are being held in Mississippi County jail under $2,500 bond each.

Deputy sheriff Norris Grissom, who arrested the trio Wednesday morning, said he was notified at 4:30 a.m. by Charleston police of a reported armed robbery at Wyatt Junction Truck Stop, where Wright was employed.

According to Grissom, Wright related to him that he had gone to the rest room at the station and as he turned to leave the room an unknown subject warned him through a louvered window not to move and ordered him to give him the money or he would shoot him. The money, according to Wright, was handed to the man through the

Congressman's sex arrest uncovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Louisiana congressman was apprehended by vice squad agents who said he tried to solicit a woman police decoy for sex early this year, it was reported today. The report said federal officials suppressed records of the incident.

However, another report apparently referring to the same incident, said no charge was made because members of Congress are provided by the Constitution with immunity from arrest for misdemeanors while Congress is in session except for breaches of the peace.

The New York Post said it learned from unnamed sources that the cover-up of the incident involving Rep. Joe D. Waggonner, D-La., reached to the top levels of the Washington, D.C., police department and into the U.S. attorney's office.

A written report of the incident is known to exist, the Post said. That report, it's sources said, went to top police officials and to the office of U.S. Atty. Earl Silbert. The newspaper said Silbert denied knowledge of any such incident or of a cover-up and promised to investigate. It said Washington Police Chief Maurice J. Cullinane was unavailable for comment and that an aide had no comment.

There was no immediate response from Waggonner, Silbert or Cullinane to the Post story.

However, the Washington Star said Wednesday it had learned a congressman was taken into custody last winter by police who said he solicited a policewoman disguised as a prostitute. The Star did not name the congressman.

The Star said the incident occurred last February. It said the congressman was freed with profuse apologies and that there is no record of his apprehension, "not a shred of paper bearing his name or any details of the incident.

"Apparently it was all legal," the Star said. "The congressman was released under provisions of the U.S. Constitution, Article I, Section 6 — a little-known passage that Washington police officers memorize in rookie school and are encourged not to forget."

That section of the Constitution says:

"The senators and representatives ... shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same ..."

The reports came after a Washington attorney sued Rep. Wayne L. Hays and Elizabeth Ray under a 19th century law allowing damage suits against persons who make false claims against the government.

Miss Ray has accused Hays, a ranking House Democrat, of placing her on the government payroll at $14,000 a year solely to be his mistress. Hays has denied Miss Ray's claim that she did no congressional work in return for the salary.

MARTHA MITCHELL: R.I.P.

Hollywood screen writers, television soap opera script writers, and authors of fictitious romance- adventure stores will be hard put to concoct, however superior their creative imagination, anything to match the true-life story of Martha Mitchell.

The girl who made good. The most popular blonde in her school class and in the neighborhood. Born on the right side of the tracks. The small-town girl who made it to the very top in the Big City. Married to a member of the most exclusive club in the world. Living in a fabulous condominium complex where the cheapest quarters cost $130,000 cash — and her apartment wasn't cheap. The woman who, when seated among many at the head-tables of Washington affairs, received more applause than any of the other dignitaries. The most popular with and most eagerly sought after by the Press. The wife who, by merely picking up the telephone, was assured front - page attention from coast to coast. The envy of women everywhere. How wonderful it would be to taste a small portion of the glory enjoyed by Martha Mitchell!

And then villians all about. And Martha, in possession of dangerous secrets. Secrets that must never be known to the public. Conspiracy. Wolves at the door. Evil machinations in high places. From winning, to losing. Deserted by family and friends. Husband lost, marriage destroyed, from riches to rags. And then — to make this improbable true story even more fiction-like, the ultimate tragedy: struck down by a crushing disease for which there is no treatment, no cure, no hope. From the scenes of hundreds of enthusiastic admirers, to death at 57, totally alone except for an attending physician to note the official time, for the record, of her passing.

Martha, we hope that the verdict of history will be less cruel than the world in which you lived. R.I.P.

STILL THEY COMPLAIN!

In order to reduce astronomical statistics to understandable size, one of the country's biggest oil companies has presented an analysis of its operations minus a string of stratospheric zeros. The analysis focuses on one dollar of company revenue--to represent all of the dollars taken in--and shows where it goes.

The biggest slice, about 32 cents goes to pay federal, state and local taxes. The next largest bite out of the revenue dollar is 28.5 cents which the company pays for purchase of crude oil and petroleum products. Next, about 15 cents comes out of every dollar for the actual costs of operating production, refining and transportation functions. Approximately 9 cents goes for various kinds of selling and administrative expense. A few cents pay for such items as depreciation, interest and other financial charges. These major items--taxes, purchases of raw materials and products, operating sales, and various administrative and financial expenses--total about 90 cents of the company's revenue dollar. About 9 cents of that dollar in 1973 was left for profit or net income.

Incidentally, there were about 720,000 registered shareholders among whom 4 cents per dollar of earnings was distributed. In the end, roughly 5.5 cents out of every revenue dollar was available to reinvest in the business and that took care of the 9 cents of net income. And still we hear critics complain about the profits of the oil industry!

IT'S A VICIOUS CIRCLE

A little over a year ago, Sid Taylor, National Taxpayers Union's research director, put together a complete accounting of the federal government's debts, laibilities, and commitments, and called it the Taxpayers Liability Index (TLI). It was based upon an obscure Treasury Department report which listed U.S. financial obligations (in 32 pages). At that time the TLI came to a total of $5 trillion. That's five times the total Gross National Product of the U.S. in 1970.

In order to help imagine how much money that is, a reader suggested this calculation: If you spent a dollar a second, night and day, it would only take about 11 days to spend a million dollars. If you continued spending at this rate, it would take 32 years to reach a billion dollars, and you wouldn't spend a trillion dollars for 32,000 years.

This month, the Department of the Treasury published new figures on our financial obligations. Using those figures, along with the results of some intrepid financial investigations into the federal retirement programs, Sid Taylor has updated the TLI. The total debts, liabilities and financial commitments of the federal government now total $6.55 trillion. In order to pay off that amount at the rate of $1 per second it would take 408,000 years.

The increase, about a trillion dollars in one year, is really more shocking and potentially more devastating than the increase in the federal operating budget. The impact of these commitments is hard to pin down since many are contingent on social and economic conditions. But the cumulative effect of such tremendous obligations is sure to be harmful. Not only are present taxpayers committed to make huge payments to government, but all of society is locked into a massive system of wealth transfer for decades to come.

Despite what most political candidates say in this election year, one effect of this is to remove federal spending from taxpayer control. As evidenced by President Ford's proposed budget for 1977, most spending is a result of prior decisions. Because of commitments which the majority of Congress and the Administration have already made, there will be less and less discretion as to how to spend our money.

Another effect is that such mammoth debts virtually guarantee inflation. The financial obligations are so great that taxes cannot be raised enough to meet them without severely damaging the economy. As a result, government borrows. This further increases our debts and inflation.

It's a vicious circle.

XXX

CONGRESS COMMITS ITSELF TO A SPENDING CEILING

This year's federal deficit of $74.1 billion will be the largest in history despite the new Budget Control Act.

"The major variable in the federal budget is the economy and what is happening at the moment," reports the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S. "What it boils down to is that the budget is a victim of the economy."

Some economic factors that frustrated Congressional efforts to hold down this year's deficit were the tax cuts and rebates voted to stimulate the economy, the automatic rise in Social Security benefits to keep up with living costs, extraordinary outlays of $18 billion in unemployment insurance and the fact that, due to inflation, everything government buys costs more.

Therefore, the thrust of government policy must concentrate on important issues that shape government spending policies. The new Budget Control Act, implemented this year for the first time, is helpful since it places the budget in the context of the overall economy.

Under the new act, Congress committed itself to a spending ceiling of $374.9 billion. Between now and June 30, Congress can demonstrate, if it has the will, that it can live by that ceiling. One member can block any new spending bill that breaches the ceiling: A simple objection raising a point of order.

The only way to circumvent that obstacle is for Congress to adopt a new ceiling, which then requires agreement of both Houses.

In other words, said a member of the House, the ceiling stands "until Congress changes its mind."

Also, it was pointed out the ceiling itself was adopted by a margin of only two votes, 187 to 185, which indicates the Congress has pretty well agreed where they want the ceiling.

Burdened taxpayers will be watching Congress this election year--and the spending ceiling is a guide.

JURIES REAL CULPRIT IN CALIFORNIA HEALTH CRISIS

When you get down to the root of the matter Santa Claus juries are the real culprit, and too little is being said about their role in the Southern California health care crisis.

Sure, blame the striking money-hungry docs, blame the greedy insurance companies, blame the contingency fee system.

A doctor said: "It's simple. Cut out the contingency fees (many malpractice suits are taken by lawyers for a percentage of the settlement and run 50 per cent and higher) and you'll cure the whole problem."

But there is no such simple solution. Perhaps there is in England where you have socialized medicine. Not in this country and not under our system. Outlaw contingency fees in malpractice suits, and you outlway it for personal injury, libel, all kinds of suits involving plaintiffs who can't fork up the kind of money it takes to hire a good lawyer.

As for insurance companies, they find malpractice insurance a money loser in California.

As for the docs, well, they may be money hungry, but also they are victims. They are as highly trained professionals as you find anywhere. It wasn't widespread medical blundering that caused malpractice insurance rates in several specialities to skyrocket to $36,000, more than some young medics earn in a year.

So whom is there to blame?

Actually nobody but the average guy. Not the privileged, not the California downtrodded. To blame is just the respectable kind of men and women who regularly serve on California juries and permit glib lawyers to bamboozle them into million dollar settlements. Ironically these poor suckers are apt to be more punished by the doctors' strike than others. Most don't have a family doctor. Most don't have a regular physical examination. They call a doctor's office--some doctor's office--when they become ill or one of the children gets hurt.

We are all a bit appalled that individualistic, high income doctors would walk out on their patients. Even union people, who think of the strike as their exclusive weapon, are dismayed. But this all just shows how far things are down the road in some sections of this country of ours.

Well maybe it can't happen in Kansas. From Atchison county to Southern California it is nigh 1,800 miles. But craziness is contagious. It would just take one over-extravagant malpractice settlement to trigger a wave of irrational awards.

And in the long run nobody would win.

The "Lies, Lies, Nothing But Lies" Over the Coffee contest is succeeding beyond my wildest dreams. (Not all my wildest dreams, you understand; just having to do with contests.)

Entries are flushing in, inundating the "Lies" headquarters (as we refer to the Washington bureau) with mendacity. Little did I know that asking people to choose their favorite lies would release the pent-up emotions of the entire state. Some of the lies I can't even print, they're so good.

Here are some of the printable lies sent in thus far. Among the most commonly told lies in our society are:

"Well, you certainly don't look it, dear."

"I didn't vote for Nixon, either."

"To open, pull tab."

"You'll never regret this."

"I'm only telling you this for your own good."

"Of course I believe you."

"Clear skies, light breezes, temperatures in the high 70s."

"It seems like only yesterday."

"I have a headache."

"He isn't in. Can I take a message?"

"Don't worry, he doesn't bite."

"This car has been thoroughly checked and it's in perfect running condition."

"I'm going to concentrate on my studies this semester."

"I went into medicine because I like people."

"I went into law because I love justice."

"We're behind you all the way, win or lose."

"Yes, but we're separated."

"Is that a wig? I'd never have guessed it."

"I do."

Is that lying, or is that lying? I'll tell you, Iowans have an undeserved reputation for naivete. They know what's happening.

This contest would never go over in a place like Washington, D.C., for example. The people here don't know the difference between lying and telling the truth. Not even when they're the ones doing it.

Send in more entries. This contest will run indefinitely, but only if the supply demands it, and vice versa. Send your lies to "Lies, Lies, Nothing But Lies," 952 National Press Building, Washington, D.C., 20045.

In case of ties, entries become the property of the judges. Neatness and originality will not be condoned, except in states where rules are prohibited.

COALS TO NEWCASTLE

WASHINGTON— A place gets an image and there isn't a darn thing you can do about it. For a while everybody thought Washington D.C. was one big Watergate. That was bad enough but now, since all the sex scandals, out-of-towners think of our town as Sodom-on-the-Potomac.

The other day I heard from Ralph, an acquaintance out of the past, who announced he was in D .C. for the Bicentennial.

"How's the old boy?" he chortled on the telephone.

"Fine, Ralph. How's your second – or is it third wife?"

"Third," he said. "She's not with me. I told her, 'Honey, I only get to Washington once in my life, and if I brought someone as sexy as you along, it would be like bringing coals to Newcastle.' Ha,ha ha."

"You were always one to come up with a fresh phrase, Ralph. What did she say to that?"

"She said, 'You can take the man out of the boy, but you can't take the boy out of the man.' And she let me go. Ida's a great girl. Okay, let's forget the small talk. I have only three days. Where's the action?"

"What action?" I asked.

"Aw c'mon, get off it. The houseboats, the parties in the lobbyists' penthouse apartments, the skinny-dipping in the Georgetown pools – all the stuff I've been reading about."

"Ralph, you're not going to believe this, but I've never seen any of it. It may exist, but I'd be the last guy to know about it if it did."

"You're putting me on," Ralph said. "This town is supposed to be hotter than Havana in its heyday. I'm your buddy and I'm discreet as hell. Just give me a few numbers. I'll take it from there."

"Okay," I said. "If you go down to 14th Street there's a go-go bar and two movies that specialize in X-rated movies, and two bookstores that sell 'The Story of O.' But don't use my name."

"Listen, we got more than that in Des Moines," Ralph said. "I'm talking about the secretaries who can't type and the typists who aren't allowed to be secretaries, and the runners-up of the Miss Cherry Blossom Festival. That's the kind of girls I want to meet."

"I don't know any of these girls, Ralph. Why don't you go to a singles bar in Bathesda? Maybe you'll find the girl of your dreams."

"Give me the name of someone who chairs a committee in Congress," he said. "Just give me the name of one person up there you know and I won't bother you again."

"Bella Abzug."

"Give me another name," he said.

"Ralph, the papers have been overplaying the sex scandals because they're sick and tired of writing about Jimmy Carter, Jerry Ford and Ronald Reagan. Maybe all these things happened and maybe again they didn't. But you can't just go up to the Capitol and find an orgy. In spite of what you read, it isn't like that."

"Sure," he said, "you guys are trying to keep it all to yourselves. Well, I'm a taxpayer and I got as much right to have fun as any congressman or senator in Washington. We people back home are getting sick and tired of our elected officials making hay at our expense."

"Don't get sore at me, Ralph. If I knew where the action was I'd not only tell you, I'd go with you. But a big night for most of us who live here is to go to a Safeway supermarket and see if we can get out for less than $100."

"So you're not going to help me," Ralph said. "You think I'm not good enough to meet a receptionist or a girl that can't take shorthand. Well, I won't forget this, buddy. I have other sources in Washington to call."

"I'm sorry, Ralph. I don't know how to put it, but I think you came to the wrong place for action."

"Where should I have gone?"

"Newcastle."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Mayor Daley's Man In Washington with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— Rep. John Fary, D.-Ill., an aging, ailing veteran of Chicago politics, doesn't make any bones about the fact that he's Mayor Richard Daley's man in Washington.

The Chicago mayor resides in Fary's congressional district, tells him how to vote and whom to hire. As Fary cheerfully acknowledges, Daley asked him to serve out the unexpired term of the late Rep. John Kluczynski, D.-Ill.

This would be of no great consequence to Americans at large, except that Fary has placed some of the mayor's henchmen on the public payroll. They are paid to work for Congress, but they appear to be doing political chores for Mayor Daley.

Gloria Johnson, for example, is carried on Fary's ocngressional payroll at $13,000 a year. Yet she can be found, not in Fary's office, but at Democratic Party headquarters in Chicago's 13th ward.

Mike Healy is also listed on the congressman's payroll as a $12,000-a-year aide. Yet he has seldom been seen in Fary's office but works as an attorney in the private law office of a Chicago alderman.

We traced another $8,000-a-year Fary aide, Raymond Anderzunas, to the Midway Funeral Home. Fary explained to our associate, Bob Owens, that the funeral director helps out by contacting "schools and clubs." But the congressman conceded: "We don't kill him with work."

Poor Fary has been left with a skeleton staff of three to run his Washington office. They literally lead him through the underground maze that links the House office buildings with the Capitol building. He has found the route from his office to the House Public Works Committee particularly tortuous.

The congressman, obviously not one of Capitol Hill's brightest lights, is strangely awed by the ability of his top aide, Tom Campbell, to get him "several write-ups in the Congressional Record." Of course, any congressman can insert anything he wishes in the Congressional Record.

Fary, unfortunately, is a sick man. He missed his first four months in Washington because of three major operations. But he says his doctors have now pronounced him fit to run for another term in November.

The faltering Fary was once a brash, bouncy politico who was known in the Chicago wards as "Big John." When Daley sent him to Congress, Fary presented toilet-shaped radios to House leaders. Accompanying each gift was a note explaining that the "Little John" came from "Big John Fary."

But Fary is most celebrated in Chicago for his 18-year battle to legalize bingo in Illinois. He commemorated his triumph by dropping his "Big John" monicker, at least temprorarily, and calling himself "Mr. Bingo."

He also passed out 250 cases of "Bingo Bottles," containing whisky and bearing a bingo board in the shape of Illinois.

But Fary's most endearing quality to party leaders is his staunch loyalty to them. On a flight to Chicago, for instance, Fary spotted Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D.-Ill. The congressman immediately proclaimed to traveling companions that Stevenson would be "the next President" and tried to get an announcement made on the public address system that the senator was on board.

Footnote: Stevenson said he had only a "vague" recollection of the incident. Fary denied that he has used his payroll for political purposes. Anderzunas, the funeral director, acknowledged that he is on Fary's congressional payroll although he operates a funeral home. Gloria Johnson and Mike Healy did not return our calls.

AGNEW'S PENANCE: Spiro Agnew, the deposed Vice President, has quietly tried to make his peace with two former associates who were alienated by his recent attacks upon Jews in the media.

William Safire, who wrote many of Agnew's 1970 campaign speeches, responded sadly: "Undertaking a crusade to persuade the American people that they are being brainwashed and manipulated by a cabal of Jews who sit astride most of the channels of communication, and thereby encouraging an irrational hatred of Jews -- that makes you a bigot."

Agnew's former press secretary, Vic Gold, agreed. Concluded Gold: "Agnew has simply sold out." Gold referred to him "as a man who once held the trust of millions of Americans. Millions, that is, of shnooks like me."

After these responses appeared in The New York Times last month, Agnew telephoned both Safire and Gold. The former Vice President pleaded that he was not anti-Semitic, not a bigot. Both told him bluntly that he had been talking like one.

SUN SHARES: Big corporations are seeking to take over ownership of the sun. The Center for Science in the Public Interest has discovered that patents for solar energy are being monopolized by such firms as General Motors, General Electric, Martin Marietta, Mobil Oil, Dupont, Boeing and United Aircraft.

The Center found that of 47 solar heating patents assigned from 1965 to 1975, two-thirds were obtained by giant companies. Between 1950 and 1975, big companies were assigned 25 or 28 solar electric power patents. Yet before 1943, the big firms had virtually no solar heating patents.

The same pattern is developing with federal grant money. Both the Energy Research and Development Administration and the National Science Foundation have given more than 80 per cent of their solar grants to big firms.

Chicago Musclehood: Feds cutting Teamsters pension fund's power to invest in gambling casinos

NEW YORK— This was to be an explosive disclosure of federal and state investigations into that notorious muscled teamsters local in the Kennedy Airport area. There are charges that, under peculiar circumstances, $1.1 million in excess "commissions" were paid to associates and allies of the union's leadership. Already the State Insurance Department has recovered some $200,000 and now demands restitution of another $900,000.

But, momentarily, I lost interest in this local cash carnage when I began digging into those who are digging into the huge Chicago-based Teamsters Central States, Southeastern and Southwestern Areas pension fund.

Now there you find money. And "the system." And a very silent and dedicated U.S. Labor Department investigations chief who has some 50 top, well-mixed probers -- street men, undercover men and auditors -- analyzing almost three billion dollars worth of pension and welfare funds.

They're getting action. The fund's policy of granting huge loans to Nevada gambling casinos has been redlined by the Labor Department. Further, the Department is devising formulas on the percentage of assets which any pension fund can invest in a variety of fields.

Digging into all this is like trying to do the 100-yard dash through a Congo rain forest. Lots of tripping. For example, the going is slow for the Labor and Justice Departments and the Securities Exchange Commission as they hack a path to the fund's recent $40 million loan to a hotel operator who is using the money to enlarge the hotel and its gambling facilities, which in turn have been bailing out losing properties owned by a conglomerate, dominated by a man whose other properties have received in one fashion or another $150 million in previous Central States Teamsters fund loans.

Thus you get "investigatively" close to $190 million.

Actually, one federal prober reports the Central States fund has well over half a billion dollars in such intricate loans. It's all apparently legal. But it could violate the "effective financial fiduciary pursuance (discretion of investments)" which became law Jan. 1, 1975. And on Jan. 1, 1976, the law's "prohibitive transactions section" became effective. Thus, for the Labor Department's civil auditors, there's a cutoff so recent that the old transactions could be legal.

So the probers are seeking those outsiders who have made money from the big fund illegally or unethically. There's considerable interest in the 53-year-old Allen Dorfman, a one-man pension fund-consulting-actuarial cartel. He's got his fists in at least six such firms.

Allen is the son of the late Paul "Red" Dorfman who once threatened to smack down an investigative columnist in the posh lobby of a San Francisco Nob Hill hotel. When the newsman told the powerful Chicago hoodlum to cool it and asked why the hell he was so disturbed, the retort was "because you insulted my partner, Jimmy Hoffa." That was one of the few accuracies the late associate of the combine's hierarchy had on his record.

The Hoffa partnership obviously paid off to the Dorfmans. Son Allen was set up in the insurance business. The traditional Freudianism -- a son's rejection of a strong father -- wasn't operative here. Allen loves his father's milieu. Especially since on March 4, 1965, when the late Hoffa was still out of prison, the Central States fund voted Allen a 10-year contract to place all the pension fund and welfare insurance for the membership with Dorfman.

There are records, according to the federals, which indicate that in a four or five-year period, Allen Dorfman's various firms in the insurance, welfare and dental fields made over $12 million in commissions from the Teamsters Central and Michigan Conferences.

He continued to hold his "consultancies" even after April 1972, when he was convicted in New York Southern District of taking a $55,000 kickback for swinging a $1.5 million Central States fund loan. Dorfman served nine months of a year sentence and paid a $15,000 fine. But it didn't pale his suntan or dent his pocketbook. He simply doesn't understand why doing what comes naturally should disturb the authorities and the public.

There's much more here. For example, in 1969 the teamsters leased a jet from Allen Dorfman's Union Insurance Agency for $1.2 million a year. Later the lease was ended. Then Dorfman's agency bought Frankie Sinatra's 12-passenger Grumman Gulfstream Jet for $3 million. Finally it leased it to the Central States pension fund.

Apparently if you're about to lend someone $40 or $100 million, fly to him in a 12-passenger jet all poshed out by blue eyes. Doesn't everybody?

What you have here is the system. It all swivels out of wheels and deals. It evolved in the Central States fund when Hoffa, who himself got a $1.7 million lump sum pension settlement when he quit office, realized the power of a Chancellor of the exchequer of a perpetually replenished billion-dollar fund. You can believe it. Some of the nation's most influential and respected investors and politicians lined up to woo Jimmy. And Red Dorfman was his partner. Naturally the business was kept in the family.

Thus it billowed into awesome power -- political as well as financial. That's what's being smashed now -- I think.

The woman who, when seated among many at the head-tables of Washington affairs, received more applause than any of the other dignitaries. The most popular with and most eagerly sought after by the Press. The wife who, by merely picking up the telephone, was assured front - page attention from coast to coast. The envy of women everywhere. How wonderful it would be to taste a small portion of the glory enjoyed by Martha Mitchell!

And then villians all about. And Martha, in possession of dangerous secrets. Secrets that must never be known to the public. Conspiracy. Wolves at the door. Evil machinations in high places. From winning, to losing. Deserted by family and friends. Husband lost, marriage destroyed, from riches to rags. And then — to make this improbable true story even more fiction-like, the ultimate tragedy: struck down by a crushing disease for which there is no treatment, no cure, no hope. From the scenes of hundreds of enthusiastic admirers, to death at 57, totally alone except for an attending physician to note the official time, for the record, of her passing.

Martha, we hope that the verdict of history will be less cruel than the world in which you lived. R.I.P.

STILL THEY COMPLAIN!

In order to reduce astronomical statistics to understandable size, one of the country's biggest oil companies has presented an analysis of its operations minus a string of stratospheric zeros. The analysis focuses on one dollar of company revenue--to represent all of the dollars taken in--and shows where it goes.

The biggest slice, about 32 cents goes to pay federal, state and local taxes. The next largest bite out of the revenue dollar is 28.5 cents which the company pays for purchase of crude oil and petroleum products. Next, about 15 cents comes out of every dollar for the actual costs of operating production, refining and transportation functions. Approximately 9 cents goes for various kinds of selling and administrative expense. A few cents pay for such items as depreciation, interest and other financial charges. These major items--taxes, purchases of raw materials and products, operating sales, and various administrative and financial expenses--total about 90 cents of the company's revenue dollar. About 9 cents of that dollar in 1973 was left for profit or net income.

Incidentally, there were about 720,000 registered shareholders among whom 4 cents per dollar of earnings was distributed. In the end, roughly 5.5 cents out of every revenue dollar was available to reinvest in the business and that took care of the 9 cents of net income. And still we hear critics complain about the profits of the oil industry!

IT'S A VICIOUS CIRCLE

A little over a year ago, Sid Taylor, National Taxpayers Union's research director, put together a complete accounting of the federal government's debts, laibilities, and commitments, and called it the Taxpayers Liability Index (TLI). It was based upon an obscure Treasury Department report which listed U.S. financial obligations (in 32 pages). At that time the TLI came to a total of $5 trillion. That's five times the total Gross National Product of the U.S. in 1970.

In order to help imagine how much money that is, a reader suggested this calculation: If you spent a dollar a second, night and day, it would only take about 11 days to spend a million dollars. If you continued spending at this rate, it would take 32 years to reach a billion dollars, and you wouldn't spend a trillion dollars for 32,000 years.

This month, the Department of the Treasury published new figures on our financial obligations. Using those figures, along with the results of some-intrepid financial investigations into the federal retirement programs, Sid Taylor has updated the TLI. The total debts, liabilities and financial commitments of the federal government now total $6.55 trillion. In order to pay off that amount at the rate of $1 per second it would take 408,000 years.

The increase, about a trillion dollars in one year, is really more shocking and potentially more devastating than the increase in the federal operating budget. The impact of these commitments is hard to pin down since many are contingent on social and economic conditions. But the cumulative effect of such tremendous obligations is sure to be harmful. Not only are present taxpayers committed to make huge payments to government, but all of society is locked into a massive system of wealth transfer for decades to come.

Despite what most political candidates say in this election year, one effect of this is to remove federal spending from taxpayer control. As evidenced by President Ford's proposed budget for 1977, most spending is a result of prior decisions. Because of commitments which the majority of Congress and the Administration have already made, there will be less and less discretion as to how to spend our money.

Another effect is that such mammoth debts virtually guarantee inflation. The financial obligations are so great that taxes cannot be raised enough to meet them without severely damaging the economy. As a result, government borrows. This further increases our debts and inflation.

It's a vicious circle.

CONGRESS COMMITS ITSELF TO A SPENDING CEILING

This year's federal deficit of $74.1 billion will be the largest in history despite the new Budget Control Act.

"The major variable in the federal budget is the economy and what is happening at the moment," reports the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S. "What it boils down to is that the budget is a victim of the economy."

Some economic factors that frustrated Congressional efforts to hold down this year's deficit were the tax cuts and rebates voted to stimulate the economy, the automatic rise in Social Security benefits to keep up with living costs, extraordinary outlays of $18 billion in unemployment insurance and the fact that, due to inflation, everything government buys costs more.

Therefore, the thrust of government policy must concentrate on important issues that shape government spending policies. The new Budget Control Act, implemented this year for the first time, is helpful since it places the budget in the context of the overall economy.

Under the new act, Congress committed itself to a spending ceiling of $374.9 billion. Between now and June 30, Congress can demonstrate, if it has the will, that it can live by that ceiling. One member can block any new spending bill that breaches the ceiling: A simple objection raising a point of order.

The only way to circumvent that obstacle is for Congress to adopt a new ceiling, which then requires agreement of both Houses.

In other words, said a member of the House, the ceiling stands "until Congress changes its mind."

Also, it was pointed out the ceiling itself was adopted by a margin of only two votes, 187 to 185, which indicates the Congress has pretty well agreed where they want the ceiling.

Burdened taxpayers will be watching Congress this election year--and the spending ceiling is a guide.

JURIES REAL CULPRIT IN CALIFORNIA HEALTH CRISIS

When you get down to the root of the matter Santa Claus juries are the real culprit, and too little is being said about their role in the Southern California health care crisis.

Sure, blame the striking money-hungry docs, blame the greedy insurance companies, blame the contingency fee system.

A doctor said: "It's simple. Cut out the contingency fees (many malpractice suits are taken by lawyers for a percentage of the settlement and run 50 per cent and higher) and you'll cure the whole problem."

But there is no such simple solution. Perhaps there is in England where you have socialized medicine. Not in this country and not under our system. Outlaw contingency fees in malpractice suits, and you outlway it for personal injury, libel, all kinds of suits involving plaintiffs who can't fork up the kind of money it takes to hire a good lawyer.

As for insurance companies, they find malpractice insurance a money loser in California.

As for the docs, well, they may be money hungry, but also they are victims. They are as highly trained professionals as you find anywhere. It wasn't widespread medical blundering that caused malpractice insurance rates in several specialities to skyrocket to $36,000, more than some young medics earn in a year.

So whom is there to blame?

Actually nobody but the average guy. Not the privileged, not the California downtrodded. To blame is just the respectable kind of men and women who regularly serve on California juries and permit glib lawyers to bamboozle them into million dollar settlements. Ironically these poor suckers are apt to be more punished by the doctors' strike than others. Most don't have a family doctor. Most don't have a regular physical examination. They call a doctor's office--some doctor's office--when they become ill or one of the children gets hurt.

We are all a bit appalled that individualistic, high income doctors would walk out on their patients. Even union people, who think of the strike as their exclusive weapon, are dismayed. But this all just shows how far things are down the road in some sections of this country of ours.

Well maybe it can't happen in Kansas. From Atchison county to Southern California it is nigh 1,800 miles. But craziness is contagious. It would just take one over-extravagant malpractice settlement to trigger a wave of irrational awards.

And in the long run nobody would win.

The "Lies, Lies, Nothing But Lies" Over the Coffee contest is succeeding beyond my wildest dreams. (Not all my wildest dreams, you understand; just having to do with contests.)

Entries are flushing in, inundating the "Lies" headquarters (as we refer to the Washington bureau) with mendacity. Little did I know that asking people to choose their favorite lies would release the pent-up emotions of the entire state. Some of the lies I can't even print, they're so good.

Here are some of the printable lies sent in thus far. Among the most commonly told lies in our society are:

"Well, you certainly don't look it, dear."

"I didn't vote for Nixon, either."

"To open, pull tab."

"You'll never regret this."

"I'm only telling you this for your own good."

"Of course I believe you."

"Clear skies, light breezes, temperatures in the high 70s."

"It seems like only yesterday."

"I have a headache."

"He isn't in. Can I take a message?"

"Don't worry, he doesn't bite."

"This car has been thoroughly checked and it's in perfect running condition."

"I'm going to concentrate on my studies this semester."

"I went into medicine because I like people."

"I went into law because I love justice."

"We're behind you all the way, win or lose."

"Yes, but we're separated."

"Is that a wig? I'd never have guessed it."

"I do."

Is that lying, or is that lying? I'll tell you, Iowans have an undeserved reputation for naivete. They know what's happening.

This contest would never go over in a place like Washington, D.C., for example. The people here don't know the difference between lying and telling the truth. Not even when they're the ones doing it.

Send in more entries. This contest will run indefinitely, but only if the supply demands it, and vice versa. Send your lies to "Lies, Lies, Nothing But Lies," 952 National Press Building, Washington, D.C., 20045.

In case of ties, entries become the property of the judges. Neatness and originality will not be condoned, except in states where rules are prohibited.

COALS TO NEWCASTLE

WASHINGTON— A place gets an image and there isn't a darn thing you can do about it. For a while everybody thought Washington D.C. was one big Watergate. That was bad enough but now, since all the sex scandals, out-of-towners think of our town as Sodom-on-the-Potomac.

The other day I heard from Ralph, an acquaintance out of the past, who announced he was in D.C. for the Bicentennial.

"How's the old boy?" he chortled on the telephone.

"Fine, Ralph. How's your second – or is it third wife?"

"Third," he said. "She's not with me. I told her, 'Honey, I only get to Washington once in my life, and if I brought someone as sexy as you along, it would be like bringing coals to Newcastle.' Ha,ha ha."

"You were always one to come up with a fresh phrase, Ralph. What did she say to that?"

"She said, 'You can take the man out of the boy, but you can't take the boy out of the man.' And she let me go. Ida's a great girl. Okay, let's forget the small talk. I have only three days. Where's the action?"

"What action?" I asked.

"Aw c'mon, get off it. The houseboats, the parties in the lobbyists' penthouse apartments, the skinny-dipping in the Georgetown pools – all the stuff I've been reading about."

"Ralph, you're not going to believe this, but I've never seen any of it. It may exist, but I'd be the last guy to know about it if it did."

"You're putting me on," Ralph said. "This town is supposed to be hotter than Havana in its heyday. I'm your buddy and I'm discreet as hell. Just give me a few numbers. I'll take it from there."

"Okay," I said. "If you go down to 14th Street there's a go-go bar and two movies that specialize in X-rated movies, and two bookstores that sell 'The Story of O.' But don't use my name."

"Listen, we got more than that in Des Moines," Ralph said. "I'm talking about the secretaries who can't type and the typists who aren't allowed to be secretaries, and the runners-up of the Miss Cherry Blossom Festival. That's the kind of girls I want to meet."

"I don't know any of these girls, Ralph. Why don't you go to a singles bar in Bathesda? Maybe you'll find the girl of your dreams."

"Give me the name of someone who chairs a committee in Congress," he said. "Just give me the name of one person up there you know and I won't bother you again."

"Bella Abzug."

"Give me another name," he said.

"Ralph, the papers have been overplaying the sex scandals because they're sick and tired of writing about Jimmy Carter, Jerry Ford and Ronald Reagan. Maybe all these things happened and maybe again they didn't. But you can't just go up to the Capitol and find an orgy. In spite of what you read, it isn't like that."

"Sure," he said, "you guys are trying to keep it all to yourselves. Well, I'm a taxpayer and I got as much right to have fun as any congressman or senator in Washington. We people back home are getting sick and tired of our elected officials making hay at our expense."

"Don't get sore at me, Ralph. If I knew where the action was I'd not only tell you, I'd go with you. But a big night for most of us who live here is to go to a Safeway supermarket and see if we can get out for less than $100."

"So you're not going to help me," Ralph said. "You think I'm not good enough to meet a receptionist or a girl that can't take shorthand. Well, I won't forget this, buddy. I have other sources in Washington to call."

"I'm sorry, Ralph. I don't know how to put it, but I think you came to the wrong place for action."

"Where should I have gone?"

"Newcastle."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Mayor Daley's Man In Washington
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— Rep. John Fary, D.-Ill., an aging, ailing veteran of Chicago politics, doesn't make any bones about the fact that he's Mayor Richard Daley's man in Washington.

The Chicago mayor resides in Fary's congressional district, tells him how to vote and whom to hire. As Fary cheerfully acknowledges, Daley asked him to serve out the unexpired term of the late Rep. John Kluczynski, D.-Ill.

This would be of no great consequence to Americans at large, except that Fary has placed some of the mayor's henchmen on the public payroll. They are paid to work for Congress, but they appear to be doing political chores for Mayor Daley.

Gloria Johnson, for example, is carried on Fary's congressional payroll at $13,000 a year. Yet she can be found, not in Fary's office, but at Democratic Party headquarters in Chicago's 13th ward.

Mike Healy is also listed on the congressman's payroll as a $12,000-a-year aide. Yet he has seldom been seen in Fary's office but works as an attorney in the private law office of a Chicago alderman.

We traced another $8,000-a-year Fary aide, Raymond Anderzunas, to the Midway Funeral Home. Fary explained to our associate, Bob Owens, that the funeral director helps out by contacting "schools and clubs." But the congressman conceded: "We don't kill him with work."

Poor Fary has been left with a skeleton staff of three to run his Washington office. They literally lead him through the underground maze that links the House office buildings with the Capitol building. He has found the route from his office to the House Public Works Committee particularly tortuous.

The congressman, obviously not one of Capitol Hill's brightest lights, is strangely awed by the ability of his top aide, Tom Campbell, to get him "several write-ups in the Congressional Record." Of course, any congressman can insert anything he wishes in the Congressional Record.

Fary, unfortunately, is a sick man. He missed his first four months in Washington because of three major operations. But he says his doctors have now pronounced him fit to run for another term in November.

The faltering Fary was once a brash, bouncy politico who was known in the Chicago wards as "Big John." When Daley sent him to Congress, Fary presented toilet-shaped radios to House leaders. Accompanying each gift was a note explaining that the "Little John" came from "Big John Fary."

But Fary is most celebrated in Chicago for his 18-year battle to legalize bingo in Illinois. He commemorated his triumph by dropping his "Big John" monicker, at least temprorarily, and calling himself "Mr. Bingo."

He also passed out 250 cases of "Bingo Bottles," containing whisky and bearing a bingo board in the shape of Illinois.

But Fary's most endearing quality to party leaders is his staunch loyalty to them. On a flight to Chicago, for instance, Fary spotted Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D.-Ill. The congressman immediately proclaimed to traveling companions that Stevenson would be "the next President" and tried to get an announcement made on the public address system that the senator was on board.

Footnote: Stevenson said he had only a "vague" recollection of the incident. Fary denied that he has used his payroll for political purposes. Anderzunas, the funeral director, acknowledged that he is on Fary's congressional payroll although he operates a funeral home. Gloria Johnson and Mike Healy did not return our calls.

AGNEW'S PENANCE: Spiro Agnew, the deposed Vice President, has quietly tried to make his peace with two former associates who were alienated by his recent attacks upon Jews in the media.

William Safire, who wrote many of Agnew's 1970 campaign speeches, responded sadly: "Undertaking a crusade to persuade the American people that they are being brainwashed and manipulated by a cabal of Jews who sit astride most of the channels of communication, and thereby encouraging an irrational hatred of Jews -- that makes you a bigot."

Agnew's former press secretary, Vic Gold, agreed. Concluded Gold: "Agnew has simply sold out." Gold referred to him "as a man who once held the trust of millions of Americans. Millions, that is, of shnooks like me."

After these responses appeared in The New York Times last month, Agnew telephoned both Safire and Gold. The former Vice President pleaded that he was not anti-Semitic, not a bigot. Both told him bluntly that he had been talking like one.

SUN SHARES: Big corporations are seeking to take over ownership of the sun. The Center for Science in the Public Interest has discovered that patents for solar energy are being monopolized by such firms as General Motors, General Electric, Martin Marietta, Mobil Oil, Dupont, Boeing and United Aircraft.

The Center found that of 47 solar heating patents assigned from 1965 to 1975, two-thirds were obtained by giant companies. Between 1950 and 1975, big companies were assigned 25 or 28 solar electric power patents. Yet before 1943, the big firms had virtually no solar heating patents.

The same pattern is developing with federal grant money. Both the Energy Research and Development Administration and the National Science Foundation have given more than 80 per cent of their solar grants to big firms.

Inside Labor

Chicago Musclehood:
Feds cutting Teamsters pension fund's power to invest in gambling casinos

NEW YORK— This was to be an explosive disclosure of federal and state investigations into that notorious muscled teamsters local in the Kennedy Airport area. There are charges that, under peculiar circumstances, $1.1 million in excess "commissions" were paid to associates and allies of the union's leadership. Already the State Insurance Department has recovered some $200,000 and now demands restitution of another $900,000.

But, momentarily, I lost interest in this local cash carnage when I began digging into those who are digging into the huge Chicago-based Teamsters Central States, Southeastern and Southwestern Areas pension fund.

Now there you find money. And "the system." And a very silent and dedicated U.S. Labor Department investigations chief who has some 50 top, well-mixed probers -- street men, undercover men and auditors -- analyzing almost three billion dollars worth of pension and welfare funds.

They're getting action. The fund's policy of granting huge loans to Nevada gambling casinos has been redlined by the Labor Department. Further, the Department is devising formulas on the percentage of assets which any pension fund can invest in a variety of fields.

Digging into all this is like trying to do the 100-yard dash through a Congo rain forest. Lots of tripping. For example, the going is slow for the Labor and Justice Departments and the Securities Exchange Commission as they hack a path to the fund's recent $40 million loan to a hotel operator who is using the money to enlarge the hotel and its gambling facilities, which in turn have been bailing out losing properties owned by a conglomerate, dominated by a man whose other properties have received in one fashion or another $150 million in previous Central States Teamsters fund loans.

Thus you get "investigatively" close to $190 million.

Actually, one federal prober reports the Central States fund has well over half a billion dollars in such intricate loans. It's all apparently legal. But it could violate the "effective financial fiduciary pursuance (discretion of investments)" which became law Jan. 1, 1975. And on Jan. 1, 1976, the law's "prohibitive transactions section" became effective. Thus, for the Labor Department's civil auditors, there's a cutoff so recent that the old transactions could be legal.

So the probers are seeking those outsiders who have made money from the big fund illegally or unethically. There's considerable interest in the 53-year-old Allen Dorfman, a one-man pension fund-consulting-actuarial cartel. He's got his fists in at least six such firms.

Allen is the son of the late Paul "Red" Dorfman who once threatened to smack down an investigative columnist in the posh lobby of a San Francisco Nob Hill hotel. When the newsman told the powerful Chicago hoodlum to cool it and asked why the hell he was so disturbed, the retort was "because you insulted my partner, Jimmy Hoffa." That was one of the few accuracies the late associate of the combine's hierarchy had on his record.

The Hoffa partnership obviously paid off to the Dorfmans. Son Allen was set up in the insurance business. The traditional Freudianism -- a son's rejection of a strong father -- wasn't operative here. Allen loves his father's milieu. Especially since on March 4, 1965, when the late Hoffa was still out of prison, the Central States fund voted Allen a 10-year contract to place all the pension fund and welfare insurance for the membership with Dorfman.

There are records, according to the federals, which indicate that in a four or five-year period, Allen Dorfman's various firms in the insurance, welfare and dental fields made over $12 million in commissions from the Teamsters Central and Michigan Conferences.

He continued to hold his "consultancies" even after April 1972, when he was convicted in New York Southern District of taking a $55,000 kickback for swinging a $1.5 million Central States fund loan. Dorfman served nine months of a year sentence and paid a $15,000 fine. But it didn't pale his suntan or dent his pocketbook. He simply doesn't understand why doing what comes naturally should disturb the authorities and the public.

There's much more here. For example, in 1969 the teamsters leased a jet from Allen Dorfman's Union Insurance Agency for $1.2 million a year. Later the lease was ended. Then Dorfman's agency bought Frankie Sinatra's 12-passenger Grumman Gulfstream Jet for $3 million. Finally it leased it to the Central States pension fund.

Apparently if you're about to lend someone $40 or $100 million, fly to him in a 12-passenger jet all poshed out by blue eyes. Doesn't everybody?

What you have here is the system. It all swivels out of wheels and deals. It evolved in the Central States fund when Hoffa, who himself got a $1.7 million lump sum pension settlement when he quit office, realized the power of a Chancellor of the exchequer of a perpetually replenished billion-dollar fund. You can believe it. Some of the nation's most influential and respected investors and politicians lined up to woo Jimmy. And Red Dorfman was his partner. Naturally the business was kept in the family.

Thus it billowed into awesome power -- political as well as financial. That's what's being smashed now -- I think.

Lobbyists spend $306,000 during recent session

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — With a record $306,000 spent by lobbyists during the recent legislative session, five individuals representing single or multiple interests spent more than $9,000 each during the 66 days the legislature met between Jan. 7 and April 30, legislative records show.

Mahlon Aldridge, general counsel of the Missouri Chamber of Commerce, reported the highest amount — $19,600. But although nearly 40 per cent of the money spent during the session went exclusively for "entertainment" of lawmakers, Aldridge reported spending about $300 for that purpose.

The bulk of his reported expenses, nearly $15,000, was for publication of the chamber's weekly legislative bulletin, which is distribted throughtout the state.

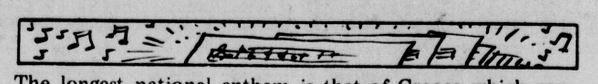
The biggest spender for "entertainment" was John Britton, who reported spending $10,500 for that purpose for a dozen clients, although most of the money was spent on behalf of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis and the Anheuser-Busch Wholesalers Association.

Britton, however, only placed third in total spending as Chester Hoevel of Associated Industries of Missouri reported expenditures of $12,300 — $10,000 of it in the final seven weeks of the session.

Following Britton in spending was Harry Gallagher who compiled a total of $10,400 on behalf of five clients. But most of the money — $8,200 — was spent on behalf of the Missouri Consumer Finance Association, which was seeking an interest rate increase for small loans. Gallagher reported spending 75 per cent of that amount on entertainment. The bill, however, failed to pass.

Eugene Mazzuca ranked fifth on the list of spenders, reporting $9,900 on behalf of the St. Louis Police Officers Association, which was seeking a pay boost for policemen. More than $6,100 of that went for entertainment of legislators.

In addition, 13 lobbyists spent between $4,000 and $7,000 this year, eight more reported expenses over $3,000, another 22 had expenses of more than $2,000 and several dozen spent in excess of $1,000.



The longest national anthem is that of Greece which contains 158 verses.

Hussein on shopping trip for Soviet missile system

MOSCOW (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan arrives today to shop for antiaircraft missiles costing less than the $850-million American system Saudi Arabia won't buy for him.

Hussein confirmed Wednesday in Vienna that preliminary discussions were under way on adding Soviet air defense batteries to Jordan's Western-equipped armed forces. He said he knew nothing of American threats to cut back aid to Jordan if he buys the Soviet hardware.

"We will do what is necessary to provide ourselves with what we need to defend ourselves, from any source," the 40-year-old king told reporters.

The visit by Hussein and Queen Alia is his first to the Soviet Union since 1967. It follows the collapse of his negotiations for the purchase of 14 Hawk antiaircraft missile batteries from the United States. Saudi Arabia had agreed to finance the deal when it was first discussed but backed out because of the price.

American officials in Washington said there was still a chance of selling six or eight batteries to Jordan. They contended that Hussein's talk of buying from the Russians was an attempt to get a better deal from Washington.

Congressional sources said purchase of Soviet equipment could endanger the $252.5 million in U.S. arms aid and $3.1 million in economic assistance to Jordan proposed for the 1976-77 fiscal year.

Robb helps revive heart attack victim

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Mental Health Department Director Dr. Harold Robb worked for 10 minutes Wednesday to help revive a woman who had collapsed at a Jfferson City photography studio.

Zeal Wright, owner of Wright's Studio, said Robb was in to get his picture taken when an elderly woman who was picking up some photos collapsed.

Wright said Dr. Robb, who is resigning his state Mental Health Department post, gave the woman mouth-to-mouth resuscitation until ambulance attendants arrived.

The woman, Ruby Neely, 64, of Jefferson City, was listed in poor condition late Wednesday in the intensive care unit of Charles E. Still Hospital, suffering from a heart attack.

Earlier this year, Robb was instrumental in talking a distraught woman out of holding a group of hostages at gunpoint at the Sttill hospital.

Lobbyists spend $306,000 during recent session

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — With a record $306,000 spent by lobbyists during the recent legislative session, five individuals representing single or multiple interests spent more than $9,000 each during the 66 days the legislature met between Jan. 7 and April 30, legislative records show.

Mahlon Aldridge, general counsel of the Missouri Chamber of Commerce, reported the highest amount — $19,600. But although nearly 40 per cent of the money spent during the session went exclusively for "entertainment" of lawmakers, Aldridge reported spending about $300 for that purpose.

The bulk of his reported expenses, nearly $15,000, was for publication of the chamber's weekly legislative bulletin, which is distribted throughtout the state.

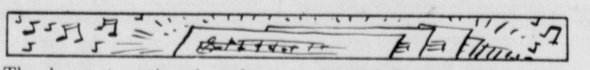
The biggest spender for "entertainment" was John Britton, who reported spending $10,500 for that purpose for a dozen clients, although most of the money was spent on behalf of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis and the Anheuser-Busch Wholesalers Association.

Britton, however, only placed third in total spending as Chester Hoevel of Associated Industries of Missouri reported expenditures of $12,300 — $10,000 of it in the final seven weeks of the session.

Following Britton in spending was Harry Gallagher who compiled a total of $10,400 on behalf of five clients. But most of the money — $8,200 — was spent on behalf of the Missouri Consumer Finance Association, which was seeking an interest rate increase for small loans. Gallagher reported spending 75 per cent of that amount on entertainment. The bill, however, failed to pass.

Eugene Mazzuca ranked fifth on the list of spenders, reporting $9,900 on behalf of the St. Louis Police Officers Association, which was seeking a pay boost for policemen. More than $6,100 of that went for entertainment of legislators.

In addition, 13 lobbyists spent between $4,000 and $7,000 this year, eight more reported expenses over $3,000, another 22 had expenses of more than $2,000 and several dozen spent in excess of $1,000.



The longest national anthem is that of Greece which contains 158 verses.

Hussein on shopping trip for Soviet missile system

MOSCOW (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan arrives today to shop for antiaircraft missiles costing less than the $850-million American system Saudi Arabia won't buy for him.

Hussein confirmed Wednesday in Vienna that preliminary discussions were under way on adding Soviet air defense batteries to Jordan's Western-equipped armed forces. He said he knew nothing of American threats to cut back aid to Jordan if he buys the Soviet hardware.

"We will do what is necessary to provide ourselves with what we need to defend ourselves, from any source," the 40-year-old king told reporters.

The visit by Hussein and Queen Alia is his first to the Soviet Union since 1967. It follows the collapse of his negotiations for the purchase of 14 Hawk antiaircraft missile batteries from the United States.

Saudi Arabia had agreed to finance the deal when it was first discussed but backed out because of the price.

American officials in Washington said there was still a chance of selling six or eight batteries to Jordan. They contended that Hussein's talk of buying from the Russians was an attempt to get a better deal from Washington.

Congressional sources said purchase of Soviet equipment could endanger the $252.5 million in U.S. arms aid and $3.1 million in economic assistance to Jordan proposed for the 1976-77 fiscal year.

Robb helps revive heart attack victim

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Mental Health Department Director Dr. Harold Robb worked for 10 minutes Wednesday to help revive a woman who had collapsed at a Jfferson City photography studio.

Zeal Wright, owner of Wright's Studio, said Robb was in to get his picture taken when an elderly woman who was picking up some photos collapsed.

Wright said Dr. Robb, who is resigning his state Mental Health Department post, gave the woman mouth-to-mouth resuscitation until ambulance attendants arrived.

The woman, Ruby Neely, 64, of Jefferson City, was listed in poor condition late Wednesday in the intensive care unit of Charles E. Still Hospital, suffering from a heart attack.

Earlier this year, Robb was instrumental in talking a distraught woman out of holding a group of hostages at gunpoint at the Sttill hospital.

Now it's Mr. and Mrs.!

Mr. and Mrs. Dewayne Edwards

Wasbutsky-Edwards

Wilma Wasbutsky and Dewayne Edwards were married at City Park in Sikeston recently, with the Rev. Charles Warren performing the ceremony.

Mrs. Velma Sisk of Morehouse is the bride's mother. The groom's mother is Mrs. Joyce Edwards, 837 Mary St.

For her morning wedding, the bride selected a floor length blue gown trimmed with white lace.

Donna Schaffer of Sikeston was maid of honor. Best man was Jackie George of Sikeston.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the park.

Mrs. Edwards is employed at the Cream Castle, 801 W. Malone Ave. Her husband is employed at Roy Recker Seed and Feed Co. of Sikeston.

The couple plans to make their home in Sikeston.

Caramel Almond Sprinkles

Story-Dugan

CHARLESTON — Rebecca Jane "Rebel" Story and James Mark Dugan were married at the United Methodist Church in Charleston recently. The Rev. Vergil Eaton of Charleston and the Rev. Robert Burke of Bertrand officiated at the evening wedding.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Sam Story of Charleston and Mr. and Mrs. Glennon Dugan of Wyatt.

Miss Story's gown of candlelight silk organza featured a high neckline with a sheer yoke. The bodice and sleeves were trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace. Matching lace circled the hemline and chapel train.

Her long veil was edged with lace and appliques. It was attached to a cap of matching lace.

She carried a bouquet of roses, stephanotis, lilies of the valley and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Ed Marshall III of Sturdivant. Maid of honor was Laurie Moran of Charleston. Bridesmaids were Betty Ann Brown, Mrs. R.E. Lee Goodwin and Mrs. Dabney McMurray, all of Charleston; Tomee Ann Britt of East Prairie; Pat Fitzgerald of Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs. Jesse Jackson of Houston, Tex.; Kathy Shelton of Fort Worth, Tex.; Carol Sanders of Wichita Falls, Tex.; Mary Preston Horn of Charleston, W.Va.; and Elissa Williams of Boston, Mass.

The groom's best man was his brother, Mike Dugan, of Hutchinson, Kan. Groomsmen and ushers were the bride's brother, Sam Story Jr., Dabney McMurray, William Glass Jr., David Williams, Monroe Black, James Pollock Jr., Wayne Corse and Tom Story, the bride's cousin, all of Charleston; E.E. "Pete" Story of Wolf Island, Ill., the bride's cousin; James Cohn and the groom's cousin, Cliff Dugan Jr., of Wyatt.

Mary Gill of Memphis, Tenn., was flower girl. Abbie Story of Wolf Island was ringbearer. Candlelighters were Lee, John, Shelby and Stephen Story.

A reception for the couple was held at the National Guard Armory in Charleston.

Mrs. Dugan is a 1972 graduate of Charleston High School. She received her bachelor's degree in history from Sophie Newcomb College of Tulane University in New Orleans, La. this year.

Her husband, a 1970 graduate of Charleston High School, attended Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau.

Ann Landers

Ann gets needle for doctor advice

Dear Ann Landers: I noticed you call on doctors frequently for help with questions involving medicine. In exchange for their help you manage to cover up for them very nicely by manufacturing alibis for their mistakes (which are buried in various cemeteries), and you're quite a pal to the A.M.A.

I base my statements on the advice you gave recently when a reader wanted to know where to report a doctor whose conduct with a woman patient was, shall we say, out of line. You said, "Go to your County Medical Society."

Such rubbish! You know very well doctors always side with doctors. How about a better answer? -- On To You

Dear Off Base: It's untrue that doctors always side with doctors. The leaders in the medical profession are more diligent than ever in their efforts to weed out the alcoholics, incompetents and "knife-happy" menaces.

I've said it before but I'll say it again: If you have a complaint against a physician and you don't trust the County Medical Society, take your complaint to the state's medical licensure board. It then becomes a matter of public record. The board meetings are open to the public. If the board decides against the physician, he can be reprimanded, or his license to practice can be suspended or revoked. And I say, "Good riddance." The world doesn't need any more fourth-raters--in any profession or craft.

Dear Ann Landers: I wonder how many husbands handed their wives that letter in your column written by the man who said he'd like to give his wife to the necrophiliac because she was "as good as dead" in bed.

I was a wife who had the column shoved in my face. "Read this," said the lummox. "Maybe you'll recognize someone you know."

"I plead guilty on all counts," I replied. "And the reason I'm dead in bed is because you are an inconsiderate, repulsive slob." I then decided, as long as I had opened up the can of worms, I ought to let him have it with both barrels -- and I did.

I told him a man who hasn't shaved or bathed after a hard day's work, and smells of cigarettes and beer and belches so loud he can be heard in the next room, then says, "Your dinner was lousy," shouldn't expect his wife to turn on automatically just because he says, "How about it?"

He actually listened for 20 minutes, then replied, "I'm glad you told me. I'll do better from now on." And he did. That very night.

So thanks for helping us both, Ann. You're wonderful.
Feeling Great

Derar Great: What happy news! Not all women would get such an enlightened response, but I'm delighted you did. Perhaps your story will help others. Thanks for sharing.

Ann Landers

Ann gets needle for doctor advice

Dear Ann Landers: I noticed you call on doctors frequently for help with questions involving medicine. In exchange for their help you manage to cover up for them very nicely by manufacturing alibis for their mistakes (which are buried in various cemeteries), and you're quite a pal to the A.M.A.

I base my statements on the advice you gave recently when a reader wanted to know where to report a doctor whose conduct with a woman patient was, shall we say, out of line. You said, "Go to your County Medical Society."

Such rubbish! You know very well doctors always side with doctors. How about a better answer? -- On To You

Dear Off Base: It's untrue that doctors always side with doctors. The leaders in the medical profession are more diligent than ever in their efforts to weed out the alcoholics, incompetents and "knife-happy" menaces.

I've said it before but I'll say it again: If you have a complaint against a physician and you don't trust the County Medical Society, take your complaint to the state's medical licensure board. It then becomes a matter of public record. The board meetings are open to the public. If the board decides against the physician, he can be reprimanded, or his license to practice can be suspended or revoked. And I say, "Good riddance." The world doesn't need any more fourth-raters--in any profession or craft.

Dear Ann Landers: I wonder how many husbands handed their wives that letter in your column written by the man who said he'd like to give his wife to the necrophiliac because she was "as good as dead" in bed.

I was a wife who had the column shoved in my face. "Read this," said the lummox. "Maybe you'll recognize someone you know."

"I plead guilty on all counts," I replied. "And the reason I'm dead in bed is because you are an inconsiderate, repulsive slob." I then decided, as long as I had opened up the can of worms, I ought to let him have it with both barrels -- and I did.

I told him a man who hasn't shaved or bathed after a hard day's work, and smells of cigarettes and beer and belches so loud he can be heard in the next room, then says, "Your dinner was lousy," shouldn't expect his wife to turn on automatically just because he says, "How about it?"

He actually listened for 20 minutes, then replied, "I'm glad you told me. I'll do better from now on." And he did. That very night.

So thanks for helping us both, Ann. You're wonderful.
Feeling Great

Derar Great: What happy news! Not all women would get such an enlightened response, but I'm delighted you did. Perhaps your story will help others. Thanks for sharing.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Deneke

50th year noted

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Mr. and Mrs. Elmer F. Deneke celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday with a reception at the Holiday Inn in Cape Girardeau.

The couple's daughter, Mrs. Betty Summers of Sikeston, and their son, Robert Deneke Sr. of Creve Coeur, attended the reception with their families. A total of five generations of the couple's family were present along with other relatives and friends. Anna Lufcy, Mrs. Deneke's mother, was a special guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Deneke lived in Sikeston for 20 years. They were married in 1926 in St. Charles. Mrs. Deneke is the former Lillian Lufcy.

Coworkers say nurses victimized by FBI

DETROIT (AP) — "It doesn't make sense. They've got too much to lose," said a fellow nurse of Filipina Narciso and Lenora Perez, who face charges of murdering five patients and poisoning 10 others at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor, Mich.

The indictment returned Wednesday by a federal grand jury in Detroit also charged them with conspiracy to commit first-degree murder.

The FBI said Miss Narciso, 30, of Ypsilanti, Mich., would be arraigned today in Detroit and Mrs. Perez, 31, of Evanston, Ill., in Chicago.

Miss Narciso still works at the Ann Arbor hospital and Mrs. Perez at a Veterans Administration Hospital in Chicago, where she transferred last fall. Both have been placed in clerical jobs.

At a news conference Wednesday, Jay E. Bailey, acting special agent for the FBI in Detroit, declined to discuss a possible motive for the poisonings.

Eleven patients died at the hospital last year from breathing failures. Investigators linked the deaths to the drug Pavulon, cr pancuronium bromide, a curare-like, muscle-paralyzing drug which renders patients incapable of breathing without mechanical aid.

While official suspicion turned toward the two registered nurses almost as soon as the FBI started investigating the deaths at the Ann Arbor hospital, their friends and hospital coworkers call Miss Narciso and Mrs. Perez dedicated medical professionals and say they have been victimized by authorities.

"What gets me is that they put the finger on Leonie and P.J. but nobody has ever said that was the night both of them folded. Nobody ate all night. And Lonie just passed out. Then P.J. got so worked up ... she started to get weak in the knees and faint and then ... she got sick to her stomach."

"P.J." is Miss Narciso's nickname.

"The night" was Aug 12, when there were eight respiratory arrests in one hour.

Both accused nurses were on duty when the eight cases suddenly overwhelmed the intensive care unit of the hospital. And both worked so long and hard they collapsed and fainted, said another nurse on duty then.

The two women are Philippine citizens in the United States as resident aliens. They arrived in 1971, but never met until late spring 1975 when they were assigned to the intensive care unit at the Ann Arbor hospital.

Miss Narciso is the daughter of a retired building contractor, and one of nine children. After her arrival in the United States, she worked for two years at the University of Alabama Hospital in Birmingham where she acquired the nickname "P.J.".

Curt Branham, her landlord and neighbor, called her "a friendly, outgoing person." He said he believes the FBI took advantage of Miss Narciso's ignorance of the U.S. legal system in interrogating her repeatedly for two months before she and Mrs. Perez were persuaded by friends to get an attorney.

Mrs. Perez came to Evanston, Ill., five years ago and a year later she married another Filipino migrant, Epifanio A. Perez Jr. In 1972, the couple moved to Ann Arbor, where their son was born.

American Party holds convention

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — With many of the trappings of a major-party conclave but considerably less public interest, the American party opens its third national nominating convention today.

"This is the first time in modern history there has been a viable third party," said Tom Anderson, national chairman, temporary convention chairman and favorite for the party's presidential nomination.

Despite Anderson's claim of viability, only about 200 of 500 expected delegates had signed in with the convention's credentials committee by Wednesday evening.

And only one television station, KSL, a Salt Lake City station owned by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), set up equipment in the bunting-draped Exhibition Hall for live coverage of the convention's opening.

The American party was founded in 1968 by Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who bolted the Democratic party to run under its banner as an independent candidate for president.

Wallace has since returned to the Democratic ranks and has been repudiated this year by some American party members for his recent endorsement of Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter.

Today's agenda at the Salt Palace included opening ceremonies, reports of the platform, rules and credentials committees and an evening banquet, keynoted by conservative author Scott Stanley Jr.

In additional to Anderson, a conservative lecturer and author from Pigeon Forge, Tenn, at least four men active in American party state organizations have offered themselves as presidential candidates.

One of them is Cecil Moore, a favorite-son candidate from Georgia who drove his motor home to Salt Lake City, politicking all the way. He predicts the party will take 34 per cent of the national vote this fall, thus "winning by a plurality."

Other presidential hopefuls are lawyer Lawrence Topham of Utah, economist and author Percy L. Greaves Jr. of New York and Arizona favorite son Bill Bowler.

The party's 40-plank platform contains 13 planks relating to foreign policy, including one calling detente a "policy of appeasement" that should be discontinued at once.

It also calls for nonrecognition of "Communist slave states," withdrawal from the "insolvent, unstable, Communist-dominated" United Nations, and continued U.S. sovereignty over the Panama Canal Zone.

Domestic planks include an end to all federal intervention in public education and the limitation of consumer protection laws to safety matters.

Jaycee's to offer adult swimming lessons

Adult swimming lessons in beginners and fitness swim classes will be offered at the Jaycee Swimming Pool.

The beginners class will be held in the evenings from 7 to 8 p.m., beginning July 5 and running through July 16. This class is open to any adult who would like to learn how to swim.

The fitness swim is open to those adults who know how to swim but would like to have the opportunity to be reviewed on the basic strokes. Time will be given to practice of these as well as just swimming to build up endurance. The time for this class will be from 9 to 9:40 a.m. July 19-30.

Registration for the classes will be held at the Jaycee pool from 9 to 11 a.m. June 21-25.

Registration for the swimming lessons for children ages 4-16 continues through next week at these same times. These lessons will be taught in two sessons, July 5-16 and July 19-30.

Engineers will buy cave

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers will buy Onondaga Cave and keep it open as a tourist attraction even if the Meramec Dam is built, a corps official says.

William W. Kirk, project coordinator for the Meramec Basin project, said money to buy the cave was contained in a public works appropriation bill which passed the House of Representatives Tuesday.

Part of Onondaga Cave, about 80 miles southwest of St. Louis, would be flooded because of the dam, and cave owner Lester Dill has said the water would ruin it as a tourist attraction.

Kirk said the corps would reopen another entrance to the cave, because the present entrance would be flooded. Other improvements also would be made, he said.

He said the corps has hired an independent appraiser to help determine the value of the cave in preparation for negotiating with Dill for its purchase.

Dill filed suit seeking to stop the Meramec Dam in 1974, but dropped the suit in May after the Sierra Club lost in its court efforts to block the project.

Charleston's 4th to have religious theme

CHARLESTON — Charleston's Fourth of July festivities for the Bicentennial year will have a strong religious theme, according to Mrs. Velna C. Brown of the local Bicentennial Commission.

A fireworks display is not now scheduled, unless some local clubs or organizations decide to raise the money and put on the show, Mrs. Brown said.

All local residents and businesses have been asked to fly their flags during the "honor America" period proclaimed by President Gerald Ford — June 14 through July 4.

In addition, during this period all churches are asked to ring their bells at noon each day, as a salute to the coming of the 200th anniversary of American Independence.

Beginning the Fourth of July celebration, churches have been asked to open their doors at midnight July 3, and keep them open for a 24- hour period for private prayer and meditation.

On July 4, each church will have its own service in the morning, after which all congregations are asked to assemble in Rowling Park with basket lunches for a communitywide picnic.

At 7:30 p.m. that day, an ecumenical "religious heritage" service is planned at the CHS football field, with Dean Bill Stacy of the Southeast Missouri State University Graduate School as the principal speaker.

Music will be furnished by a brass choir from the CHS band, directed by Wendell Smith, and the community chorus, directed by Stephen L. Barr. Members of the chorus, and anyone else who would like to help provide the music for the service, are asked to attend rehearsals at 7 p.m. June 22 and 29 at the CHS choral music room.

As their contribution to the celebration, all local stores are asked to decorate their windows in a patriotic theme. Mrs. Loiselle Ellis is chairman of the decorating committee, and will furnish assistance to merchants requesting help with this phase of the project.

Mrs. Julia Warren is general chairman of the Bicentennial Commission, and Lanie Black is Fourth of July Celebration chairman. The Ministerial Alliance has cooperated in helping formulate plans, Mrs. Brown said.

Any club or organization interested in sponsoring a fireworks display, probably to be held after the religious observance on July 4, is asked to contact Mrs. Brown at the city hall, or one of the chairmen.

Donkey basketball is scheduled for July 4

NEW MADRID — The donkey baseball game scheduled for 7:00 p.m. on July 4th at the Little League Park will be changed to a donkey basketball game in case of rain and will be held at the same time and same date but in the Scott Street School gymnasium.

The team members will remain the same as well as the captains, staff members and the price of tickets.

Any student above the age of 13 who wish to cooperate with this community betterment project are asked to contact Mrs. Dot Halstead at the New Madrid Museum about selling tickets. Any student selling over $25 worth of tickets will receive a free ticket, and a prize will be offered to the student selling the most tickets.

Staff members and team members are asked to pick up their tickets to sell in advance from Mrs. Halstead. It is requested that they pay for their tickets in advance.

Bloodmobile to be here next week

A Red Cross bloodmobile will be at First Christian Church, 1006 N. Main St., from 2 to 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

Persons who filled out donor cards are asked to honor their pledges.

Flowing nearly 3,500 miles across Siberia, the Ob River and its tributary, the Irtyah, make up the fourth largest river system in the world.

Malden signs letter of intent to buy electricity from Sikeston

MALDEN — The City Council Monday night approved signing a letter of intent to purchase electric power from the city of Sikeston. This action came after City Engineer Bill Green explained that Sikeston plans to build a 400 megawatt power plant to be on-line in 1981-82 and will have power to sell.

The Board of Public Works had examined the letter and recommended that it be signed.

Green also explained that Missouri Utilities, which now supplies Malden, was seeking a 20-year contract. Malden's contract with Missouri Utilities will expire in 1979, according to Green. The City can either sign with Missouri Utilities, M&A Power Co-op of Poplar Bluff or with Sikeston.

A representative of M&A told Green that M&A would supply Malden, but only on a year-to-year basis and that Malden would have to purchase between 600 and 1,000 megawatts for the contract. Green also said that M&A suggested that Malden could obtain a better deal by purchasing from Sikeston.

Green said the letter of intent is not a signed contract of purchase. However, he did say that by signing the letter, Sikeston would expect a signed contract to purchase and the contract is to be signed by Aug. 1.

Green acknowledged that a one-year city power study and consultant services are needed, but in order to use the Sikeston plant, the letter needed to be signed by June 15.

Councilman Leroy Evans asked if the Board of Public Works had approved a signature and was answered that they had. He then made the motion for the signature. The motion was seconded and passed.

Green also informed the council of the possibility of obtaining matching funds for construction of a lighted softball field near the Municipal Light and Water plant. The grant would have to be 50-50 for the $41,000 project. However, the Board of Public Works would donate the lost ($3,000), time and poles ($10,000) which would leave a balance of approximately $17,000 to be furnished by the city.

Councilman Bill Smithson, who was later joined by Councilman Jim Corder, opposed the proposition. Smithson said that he did not object to "fixing up" the city park located there, but he coiuld see no need for an additional ball field. Apparently, the field will replace Layne Field, which is used by the church softball league and will not be available next year or the following years.

Green also advised the council of the condition of the swimming pool and advised the council that if the city plans to build a new pool, now is the time to investigate the possibility of obtaining matching funds.

The council requested the city attorney to draw an ordinance pertaining to curfew enforcement for the city.

Councilman Floyd Lee informed the council of traffic conditions on Front Street (parallels Highway 25 North) and asked the council to consider placing stop signs somewhere along the street to control traffic moving on and off the street to Highway 25. After discussion, the council requested the city attorney prepare an ordinance to place a stop sign at the intersection of Front Street and Pittman Road.

In other actions, the Council:

—Approved the telephone company laying a cable in the alley beside city hall from East Main to East Laclede Streets provided the company pays for repair of blacktop.

—Approved the tax rate $1.50 for 1976.

—Approved Resolution 2112 calling for preparation of a new comprehensive plan for the Malden airport.

—Approved Resolution 2113 which calls for certain land facilities in the airport be reserved for aviation use.

—Approved bills payable, police, collectors, Malden Recreation Park, ambulance and community center reports.

—Approve purchase of 150 yards of gravel.

—Approved a request by Councilman Bill Smithson that public hearings be brought before the Planning and Zoning Commission prior to the City Council, thus necessitating a change in zoning ordinances.

—Voted to purchase a pick-up truck from Rowe Ford for $3845.00

—Received a complaint of trash at Little League Park.

Area cities enter state competition

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri Community Betterment Program Coordinator, Bill Borgmeyer, has announced that the cities of Morley, Charleston, and New Madrid have entered the 1976 Missouri Community Betterment Awards competition.

Projects entered for a competition by the chairperson of each of the communities are: Morley, chairperson Lola Mae Holland, project entered was new tennis court; Charleston, chairperson Ida Phillips, urban renewal, city beautifucation, park and recreation; and New Madrid chairperson Dixie K. Lloyd, opening and furnishing of historical museum, park improvement, citywide clean-up, fix-up, paint-up campaign; erecting a pavillion for city park and distribution of a new community attitude survey.

The three communities will be judged against the criteria of project needed, citizen involvement, actual accomplishment and in relationship of the effort to an ongoing community development project. Projects summitted show community improvement made during a one-year period and indicate a commitment to progressive community growth and balanced development.

Missouri Community Betterment emphasizes self- help for communities, with statewide recognition provided by the Division of Community Development, Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing.

In addition to the awards competition, two additional elements that emphasize development standards for communities are part of the overall MCB program. They are the five- star and all-Missouri certified city programs.

Communities entered in the awards program compete against towns of comparable size for awards which are donated by Missouri businessmen, utilities and professional groups. Winners will be announced at 13th annual Missouri Community Betterment Conference to be held Oct. 26 and 27 in Jefferson City.

Last year, 85 Missouri communities summitted project report books documenting more than 450 local improvement projects designed to better the human, economic and environmental conditions of Missouri cities, towns and villiages. Between 100 and 125 are expected to enroll in the 1976 MCB awards competition.

Women are the worst gossips, only because men are much better at the art.

Just think — it's going to take till the year 2176 for our descendants to clean all the Bicentennial souvenirs out of their closets.

Bird calls for 'intelligent-responsible legislation'

In remarks made to a Bird for Representative Committee meeting held at the Ramada Inn in Sikeston Tuesday night, G. David Bird, Democratic candidate for 159th District representative, called for the introduction of more "intelligent and responsible" legislation, rather than what Bird termed "legislation introduced to bring attention to an individual representative for his or her personal notoriety."

Bird, in an impromptu statement to supporters, noted that an effort should be made by campaign workers to communicate to the public his desire to rid the legislative process of wasteful and expensive bills that are introduced and then, ultimately, killed in committee.

Bird also expressed his concern about the continuing trend of legislators advocating consumer protection.

"Obviously, consumerism is a hot issue with politicians, nowadays," Bird remarked. "However, I'm concerned that too much legislation directed toward consumer protection could eventually damage our economy.

"Southeast Missouri's economy, in particular, could be jeapardized. Many of the consumer protection groups are directing their efforts toward curtailing agricultural profits, and I think everyone in southeast Missouri realizes that our economy is based primarily on agriculture. If we can keep the Ralph Nader groups off our backs, maybe we can continue our economy growth, both agriculturally and industrially."

Malden man remains satisfactory after stabbing incident

MALDEN — A 25-year-old Malden man was hospitalized after suffering a stab wound to the back Monday night during a confrontation at a Malden home, according to Deputy Sheriff Bob McDonald.

Danny Smith, 25, formerly of Bernie, was reported in satisfactory condition at the Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett Tuesday with a stab wound to the lower left back, sustained when he was allegedly stabbed by 30-year-old Linda May Cornett of Malden.

Deputy McDonald said Smith had gone to the home of the Cornett woman and Kenneth Ashabranner, 24, at 703 N. Madison, about 9 o'clock and accused the pair of telling a woman that he (Smith) was planning to steal her purse which reportedly contained drugs.

Smith and Ashabranner reportedly began fighting after the accusation was made, when Smith allegedly attacked Ashabranner with the butt end of a cue stick, about two feet in length, which he had brought with him.

As the two were on the floor fighting, the woman reportedly went to the kitchen, grabbed a boning knife and ran back into the room, stabbed Smith and pulled the long narrow knife out. The knife had a six to eight inch blade about a quarter-of-an-inch wide, authorities said.

Deputy McDonald said no one was taken into custody following the incident, pending a discussion with the prosecuting attorney's office on what action to take.

At one time, moral courage was believed to reside in the heart, physical courage in the stomach, wisdom in the head, affection in the kidneys, and spirit in the blood.

Area cities enter state competition

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri Community Betterment Program Coordinator, Bill Borgmeyer, has announced that the cities of Morley, Charleston, and New Madrid have entered the 1976 Missouri Community Betterment Awards competition.

Projects entered for a competition by the chairperson of each of the communities are: Morley, chairperson Lola Mae Holland, project entered was new tennis court; Charleston, chairperson Ida Phillips, urban renewal, city beautifucation, park and recreation; and New Madrid chairperson Dixie K. Lloyd, opening and furnishing of historical museum, park improvement, citywide clean-up, fix-up, paint-up campaign; erecting a pavillion for city park and distribution of a new community attitude survey.

The three communities will be judged against the criteria of project needed, citizen involvement, actual accomplishment and in relationship of the effort to an ongoing community development project. Projects summitted show community improvement made during a one-year period and indicate a commitment to progressive community growth and balanced development.

Missouri Community Betterment emphasizes self- help for communities, with statewide recognition provided by the Division of Community Development, Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing.

In addition to the awards competition, two additional elements that emphasize development standards for communities are part of the overall MCB program. They are the five- star and all-Missouri certified city programs.

Communities entered in the awards program compete against towns of comparable size for awards which are donated by Missouri businessmen, utilities and professional groups. Winners will be announced at 13th annual Missouri Community Betterment Conference to be held Oct. 26 and 27 in Jefferson City.

Last year, 85 Missouri communities summitted project report books documenting more than 450 local improvement projects designed to better the human, economic and environmental conditions of Missouri cities, towns and villiages. Between 100 and 125 are expected to enroll in the 1976 MCB awards competition.

Bird calls for 'intelligent-responsible legislation'

In remarks made to a Bird for Representative Committee meeting held at the Ramada Inn in Sikeston Tuesday night, G. David Bird, Democratic candidate for 159th District representative, called for the introduction of more "intelligent and responsible" legislation, rather than what Bird termed "legislation introduced to bring attention to an individual representative for his or her personal notoriety."

Bird, in an impromptu statement to supporters, noted that an effort should be made by campaign workers to communicate to the public his desire to rid the legislative process of wasteful and expensive bills that are introduced and then, ultimately, killed in committee.

Bird also expressed his concern about the continuing trend of legislators advocating consumer protection.

"Obviously, consumerism is a hot issue with politicians, nowadays," Bird remarked. "However, I'm concerned that too much legislation directed toward consumer protection could eventually damage our economy.

"Southeast Missouri's economy, in particular, could be jeapardized. Many of the consumer protection groups are directing their efforts toward curtailing agricultural profits, and I think everyone in southeast Missouri realizes that our economy is based primarily on agriculture. If we can keep the Ralph Nader groups off our backs, maybe we can continue our economy growth, both agriculturally and industrially."

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, June 17th, the 169th day of 1976. There are 197 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1775, the Revolutionary War Battle of Bunker Hill was fought. The British attacked patriots manning positions across the Charles River from Boston. Twice the British were repulsed, but the outnumbered defenders finally retreated.

On this date:

In 1579, Sir Francis Drake landed on the California coast.

In 1703, the founder of Methodism, John Wesley, was born in England.

In 1940, France asked Germany for peace terms in World War II.

In 1943, Allied bombers pounded the Italian city of Naples and the island of Sicily.

In 1967, Communist China announced it had exploded its first hydrogen bomb.

In 1972, the downfall of the Nixon administration began with the discovery of the Watergate break-in in Washington.

Ten years ago: The Food and Drug Administration announced a major overhaul of regulations for special diet foods and diet supplements.

Five years ago: Japan and the United States signed an agreement restoring the once bloody battlefield of Okinawa to the Japanese.

One year ago: The Soviet Union shelved its campaign to convene a new Geneva peace conference on the Middle East.

Today's birthdays: Entertainer Dean Martin is 59 years old. Designer Charles Eames is 69.

Thought for today: Travel is broadening, particularly where the food and drink are good. But the journey home is an exultant occasion — former New York Times crtic Brooks Atkinson.

management programs with emphasis on water resources and related problems.

His assignments have included fisheries and game management, water resources management, land acquisition for public access and general outdoor recreation planning.

Noren attended Maplewood High School and received a bachelor of arts degree in 1937 and a master of arts in 1941, both from the University of Missouri. At the university, he was the first student selected to receive the Edward K. Love Foundation graduate fellowship in wildlife conservation.

Noren introduced the first broad plan for natural rivers preservation in Missouri and was a key figure in gaining acceptance of the concept of preserving the Current, Jacks Fork and Eleven Points River in Missouri as part of the plans of the Arkansas- White- Red Basins Inter- Agency Committee.

Prior to his appointment as director, he had been a participant in every major comprehensive river basin investigation made in Missouri. He was secretary of the Governor's Wild Rivers Advisory Committee and chairman of the Standing Committee on Recreation of the Arkansas- White- Red Basins Inter- Agency Committee for an eight- state area.

He has been vice chairman of the State Inter- Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation and a member of the Missouri Lewis and Clark Trail Committee.

Noren is a member of the executive committee of the International Association of Fish, Game and Conservation Commissioners, and has been a member of a number of other committees of that organization. He is a past president of the Association of Midwest Fish and Game Commissioners.

because her daughter Kim was in the house alone. However, Briggs acknowledged he later learned that Kim was not at home and had stayed overnight with a girlfriend, a fact known to her mother.

Briggs also acknowledged he had a round gold earring belonging to Mrs. Garrison, but denied a defense attorney's contention that he had gotten it after her murder, but found it in his apartment after she left.

Elizabeth Kimberlee "Kim" Garrison, the victim's oldest child — by a prior marriage — was the second witness to take the stand, maintaining her composure throughout direct and cross examination.

The attractive young brunette, now 15, who bears a strong facial resemblance to her mother, told the court she last saw her mother alive about 7 p.m. Saturday night, when her mother drove her to a girlfriend's house where she had been invited to spend the night. She said her mother had dropped her by the home of her friend and proceeded on to Portageville where she had a date.

Kim said when her mother failed to call her the next morning, as had been planned she attempted to phone her, but could not do so because the lines were busy.

Her friend's parents, she said, took her home shortly afterwards, letting her off at the front driveway. When she failed to get an answer after going to the locked side door, the entrance most frequently used by the family, Kim said she went upstairs by an outside stairway leading to the sun deck of the home and pried off the window screen to the master bedroom, opened the window, pushed back the drapes and climbed in.

"I saw Mother lying there. She was all bloody — I knew she was dead then when I saw her," Kim testified.

Kim said she went to the master bedroom phone but couldn't complete a call out to her grandparents because one of the other phones elsewhere in the house was apparently off the hook.

She said she ran back to the window and headed to the nearby home of her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Loys Wilson, and then returned to the house with her grandfather, watching as he leaned over her mother and turned her over to see if she was dead.

"We went downstairs to call the police then," she continued, saying they went to the den on the south side of the house, where she noticed the phone off the hook next to the den window. "When I started dialing, I noticed the screen off the window, but I guess I was too nervous, and couldn't make the call," she said, saying her grandfather completed the dialing.

In the playroom, the phone was also off the hook, she testified, which disabled one bedroom phone, while the den phone off the hook disabled the other three phones in the master bedroom, upstairs study, and kitchen. A third separate line, she said, was the phone in her room, which was not disturbed.

On cross examination, Kim acknowledged she and her mother knew how to disable the phone system when they did not wish to be disturbed, but also noted on a redirect question that Dr. Garrison also did.

Pushing an emotional moment, one of the defense attorneys inquired about her relationship with Dr. Garrison. "He was just like my father," she replied.

"You loved him, didn't you?" the attorney responded.

"Yes."

"And people have tried to turn you against him?" the attorney queried, as Baker raised an objection sustained by the court.

"Has Dr. Wilson or Chalmers Lorrance attempted to turn you against him?" Farese continued.

"No sir," she said, saying her grandfather had talked to her and told her that Dr. Garrison was still her father, no matter what. "I still love him," she replied.

Despite further objections from the prosecution, Farese questioned Kim about the identity of a number of people, supposedly male acquaintances of her late mother, but she recognized only two or three of the names mentioned and broke into a shy smile when the defense erred as he inquired about her knowing a "Yogi Berra" instead of Yogi Briggs.

Dr. Wilson was the third witness, saying he first saw his granddaughter the morning in question at the kitchen door, when he heard her screaming, hollering and crying for him.

What did you do then, the prosecution inquired.

"She said somebody's killed my mother," the doctor responded, but the objection by the defense was sustained.

"Without saying what she said to you, what did you do," the doctor was asked again.

"We drove over to the house," he responded.

Upon arriving, Dr. Wilson and his granddaughter went to the master bedroom, where he said he found his daughter lying face down on the floor, her legs straight out, and her toes firmly in the carpeting.

Dr. Wilson said his daughter had one hand across her forehead, another behind her head, and he turned her over, noting rigor mortis had already begun to set in.

He and Kim went downstairs, he said, to phone the police, after he was informed by her the phone in the bedroom did not work.

On cross examination, the aging doctor fought his emotions and nervous condition successfully as the defense pressed him on several matters, including the definition of rigor mortis, his son's hiring private detectives to assist in the case and whether he was responsible for his daughter's death.

"Did you not have words with your daughter?" the defense counselor said.

"I advised her once she shouldn't be running around so much," Dr. Wilson said. "And she once asked me for money to go to California to see somebody and I refused," he responded to another question.

"Did you ever have any trouble with Dr. Garrison?" he was asked.

"There has never been a bit of trouble between Dr. Garrison and me," the doctor said of his relationship with his former son-in-law and hospital partner.

Regarding Mrs. Garrison's attire when her murder was discovered, Dr. Wilson testified she had pajamas on, while Kim Garrison recalled her attire as a long gown, a negligee type.

Dr. Pin H. Pu, Kennett pathologist who was in charge of the autopsy, testified the 32-year-old woman's death was caused by a gunshot wound to the back of the head, but on cross- examination, as the defense continued an argument that the autopsy report showed death between 8 and 9 a.m. Sept. 8, the doctor explained the "death time" as an estimate, not an exact time, as the defense wanted to portray.

"Determining the time of death is not a pure science," Dr. Pu said, explaining that while the provisional report showed an estimated time with some variance, that time estimate reflected his assumption of normal circumstances and other factors, some of which were estimates, such as his estimating the victim's weight at 120 pounds.

Sgt. Don Shelton, who headed the investigation for the highway patrol, was the fifth witness on the stand, describing in detail the condition of the murder scene.

Arriving at 12:15 p.m. Sunday, Sgt. Shelton said he went into the house, where he found two members of the Kennett Police Department, Dr. Wilson, Kim and family friends Jerry Stillman and Sue Austin together in the kitchen. Stillman had been notified by Mrs. Wilson, earlier testimony showed.

Going upstairs, he said he found the body lying on the floor, face up as she had been turned by her father. "There was a quantity of blood all over her face, her clothes, the floor, the bed, on the furniture, the curtains," Sgt. Shelton said.

Shortly afterwards, Dr. Wilson rejoined officers and directed them as the body was turned back over to the original position it had been found in.

Shelton said he summoned the Troop E District's evidence technician, Sgt. Gene Duckworth, who took photographs of the body, house and grounds.

Arriving at 12:15 p.m. Sunday, Sgt. Shelton said he went into the house, where he found two members of the Kennett Police Department, Dr. Wilson, Kim and family friends Jerry Stillman and Sue Austin together in the kitchen. Stillman had been notified by Mrs. Wilson, earlier testimony showed.

Going upstairs, he said he found the body lying on the floor, face up as she had been turned by her father. "There was a quantity of blood all over her face, her clothes, the floor, the bed, on the furniture, the curtains," Sgt. Shelton said.

Shortly afterwards, Dr. Wilson rejoined officers and directed them as the body was turned back over to the original position it had been found in.

Shelton said he summoned the Troop E District's evidence technician, Sgt. Gene Duckworth, who took photographs of the body, house and grounds.

Found in the bedroom were a holster and the partial finger of a surgical glove under the body, he continued.

Cardinals top Braves 4-3

Ferguson produces for Redbirds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The rush of the day's events was beginning to tell on Joe Ferguson in the sixth inning of his debut with the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night.

"Everything was starting to get to me. I was really getting tired," said the 29-year-old catcher-outfielder, who had played in a Los Angeles Dodger uniform the night before in New York.

But he found enough energy to loft a fly ball that scored the Cardinals' second run against Atlanta in helping his new teammates end a six-game home losing streak with a 4-3 decision capped by Bake McBride's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth.

Ferguson, afterward chatting with another Dodger-turnedCardinal Willie Crawford, seemed relieved the day had finally ended.

It began for him at 2:30 a.m. when he was awakened at his hotel room in New York with news he had been traded for infielder-outfielder Reggie Smith and two minor league players.

Surprised more by when the trade came — on the deadline hour — than where he was going, Ferguson got a few more hours sleep before reporting to his new job.

Arriving at the airport here at 3:30 p.m., four hours before game time, Ferguson dashed to Busch Stadium, was fitted into his familiar No. 13 uniform and met his new teammates before taking batting practice.

Learning that he would be used primarily as a backstop, with regular catcher Ted Simmons going to first base, made the rush worth it for Ferguson, who played about 15 games behind the plate for the Dodgers this season.

"I like to catch, I think I can help the club behind the plate," he said. "I enjoy it and if you do enjoy it, you can have a nice rapport with the pitching staff."

Manager Red Schoendienst said Ferguson's desire to catch is not common.

"You don't find too many catchers around who want to catch," Schoendienst said, noting also that the righthanded hitting Ferguson will be valuable to the team when it faces lefthanded pitching in the National League East.

Simmons, one of the majors' most active catchers last season, welcomed the move to first base.

"I think I'm ready for it. Sometimes I think I'm dragging too much from catching so much," Simmons said.

For a change, Cardinal fans had something to be happy about in Busch Stadium where their team has lost 15 of its last 21 games.

Atlanta carried a 3-2 lead into the bottom of the ninth but Vic Harris rapped a single to center to tie the game. Then with two outs and the bases loaded, McBride stepped to the plate to face knuckleballer Phil Niekro.

The National League's leading hitter said he was "just trying to hit the ball somewhere" when he picked out Niekro's favorite pitch and slapped it into left field.

Birds take over at Detroit as Tigers nip Royals

DETROIT (AP) — Baseball's version of "The Birds" turned into an Alfred Hitchcock-type thriller Wednesday night.

But it seems as if every time Mark "The Bird" Fidrych pitches, the suspense lasts to the very end.

Rookie Fidrych, whose opponent the first five innings was Doug Bird, pitched his sixth complete game in as many starts and Detroit scored two runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to beat Kansas City, 4-3.

It was the fourth straight game right-hander Fidrych has won in the last inning. He raised his record to 5-1. All the victories have been by one run. The lone loss was 2-0 to Boston.

The triumph was the 6,000th in the 76-year history of the Tigers.

Kansas City, off today before playing Friday in Cleveland, snapped a seven-game winning streak but is still atop the American League West.

Tiger Manager Ralph Houk said he figured at least 10,000 persons from the crowd of 22,789 came to see Fidrych, who has developed into a Detroit hero and one of the best pitchers in the league.

The fans "came to see the team" Fidrych insisted. "I haven't made myself. These guys (teammates) have made me."

Royals' Manager Whitey Herzog said Fidrych "gets the ball down good" and "has very good control for a young pitcher." Beyond that Herzog wasn't in much of a mood to talk. On two separate occasions he responded rudely to routine questions, prompting sports writers to leave. He mellowed later.

"We played a good game," he said. "There was one bad pitch and they (Tigers) shot one out."

KC broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth on Dave Nelson's sacrifice fly.

Dan Meyer opened the Tiger ninth with a single off George Brett, playing shortstop instead of third due to an injury to Fred Patek.

Ace reliever Mark Littell, who entered in the sixth when Bird complained of a sore right shoulder, was then replaced by Tom Hall.

Meyer narrowly slid safely into second after tagging on Rusty Staub's deep fly to center. Hall struck out Jason Thompson — who hit solo homers in the second and fourth — then Alex Johnson greeted Marty Pattin with a game-tying single to right.

Johnson stole second. Aurelio Rodriguez was intentionally walked. Then pinch hitter Mickey Stanley hit a ground single to right that neither first baseman John Mayberry nor second baseman Nelson could field cleanly and Johnson scored.

The Royals got an unearned run in the opening inning when Amos Otis doubled and first baseman Thompson threw wild to first on Brett's grounder. KC added a run in the sixth when Nelson singled, stole second, took third on a fly-out and came home on Brett's ground out.

Vanduser & Oran win in SeMo games

VANDUSER— The Vanduser Comets won their ninth and tenth straight games as they defeated the Cape Mets in a doubleheader here Wednesday night 8-3 and 11-2.

Vanduser lead the SEMO Softball League with a 10-1 slate after losing their first game of the season.

Cape led the home team 3-2 until eight straight hits in the seventh inning pulled the game out of the fire. Gary Owens blasted a two-run homer in the game and was the winning pitcher. Bob Welker took the loss.

Bob Blair was the winning pitcher in the second game and Doc Kirby suffered the loss.

Don Metz tripled to clear the bases and highlight a six-run fifth inning that boosted Oran to an 11-3 victory over Benton in another league game Wednesday night.

Oran trailed 3-2 going into the fourth inning when John Watkins came on to hurl in relief of Don Robert. Oran struck for six tallies in the fifth, then came back with three more in the sixth to give them a little more breathing room. Watkins got credit for the victory, while Ron LeGrand was tagged with the loss.

Henry Dirnberger led Oran's 13-hit attack with three safeties.

Faye Wright aces ninth hole at SCC

Mrs. Faye Wright of Sikeston made a hole-in-one Sunday at the Sikeston Country Club.

Mrs. Wright's ace, the first of her life, came on the par three ninth hole. The 117-yard four-iron shot landed near the front of the green and rolled into the cup.

Mrs. Wright, a teacher at Southwest Elementary School, was playing in a group with Myron Kegley, Bill Priday and Glenda Buchanan.

The hole-in-one was the second at the country club in the past month. Dr. Ed Masters aced the sixth hole about four weeks ago.

Dockins to play at Hannibal-LaGrange JC

Harold Dockins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill H. McDowell of 105 Grove St. in Sikeston, has received an athletic scholarship to attend Hannibal-LaGrange Junior College in Hannibal, Mo.

Dockins started at guard for the 1975-76 Sikeston Bulldogs, leading them to a 21-6 record, best in the school's history. He averaged over 13 points and four assists pergame, hitting 49.5 percent of his floor shots and 69.6 percent from the free throw line.

At 5-foot-10 and 165 pounds, the 18-year-old athlete is expected to play guard for his new team.

As a junior, Dockins averaged 4.6 points per contest, hitting 44.2 percent from the floor. He scored 416 points wearing a Bulldog uniform. Sikeston's record was 36-19 while he was a varsity player.

First National still unbeaten

First National teams remained undefeated after Wednesday's Girl's softball action. Strickland also remained undefeated after Wednesday's games.

Daily Standard lost their first game of the season in the Major Division Wednesday night as they lost a see-saw battle to First National. First National barely remained undefeated with a last inning rally to win 11-10.

Daily Standard was poised to defeat their opponent and did their best but couldn't hold on to two run lead through the last two innings.

First National jumped to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first but Daily Standard took a 2-1 lead in the top of the second which was short lived as the home team came right back to score two more. After First National built up a 6-4 lead in the bottom of the third Standard erupted for six runs in the top of the fourth and looked as if they were to be sure winners but their defense gave way as First National cut the lead to one, 10-9 and tied the game with a run in the bottom of the sixth and held Daily Standard scoreless over the last three innings with good defense to give them a chance to win with a run in the home half of the seventh.

Both teams managed eight safeties in the right game. Regina Brown and Shipp collected two hits apiece including a double apiece for Daily Standard. Karen Hart and Lisa Brown banged out two hits apiece for the winners.

In the other Major division game Sikeston IGA ripped Mid-Delta Ins. 17-9. Mid-Delta took a 5-1 lead after two innings of play but couldn't hold back the big bats of Sikeston IGA as they banged out 13 hits in the game. Mid- Delta was held to only five hits by winning pitcher Allegra Morris. Lisa Greer was the losing pitcher.

Paula Northern was the leading hitter for Mid- Delta with three doubles in three times at bat. Lisa Wise led Sikeston IGA in hitting with three safeties.

The two games in Senior Division were runaways as Strickland romped over hapless Citizens' Bank 25-7 and First National had no trouble defeating Williams Bros. 19-3.

Strickland struck for 13 runs in the first inning to completely demoralize Citizen's Bank. Strickland collected 11 hits in the inning. Citizens Bank had rallied for four runs in the top of the first before the roof fell in on them.

NBA votes to expand to 22 teams in 1976-77

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — The National Basketball Association decided today to expand by four teams, adding San Antonio, Denver, New York and Indiana from the American Basketball Association.

Each of the four clubs will pay $3.2 million in cash.

Originally, the purchase price for each of the four teams was supposed to be $4.5 million, with $1 million payable the first year and the rest spread over five years. The lower payment now will be due almost immediately.

The addition of the four teams will swell the NBA's membership from 18 to 22 teams for the 1976-77 season.

In choosing to add four ABA clubs, the NBA did not take two ABA franchises—Kentucky and St. Louis, which was to be moved to Utah for the ABA's 1976-77 season.

Owner Abe Pollin of the Washington Bullets, chairman of the NBA's merger committee, announced other conditions of the merger at the NBA's annual meetings here today.

They included:

—The players from the Kentucky and St. Louis-Utah teams would be put into a dispersal draft which would include both NBA and ABA teams. The draft would be held on the basis of each team's 1975-76 record, with the worst team choosing first. Each team will have the opportunity to draft.

—All contracts of ABA players will be honored, according to an agreement reached with the ABA Players Association.

—The ABA will not share in any television revenue for four season.

—The ABA will not have a vote on a resolution regarding gate-sharing for the next two seasons. ABA teams will not vote on division alignments for the 1976-77 season.

—ABA rosters will be frozen as of May 1, 1976.

—The New York Nets of the ABA have agreed to pay an indemnity to the New York Knicks of the NBA for infringing upon their territorial rights. The amount was not revealed.

The historic agreement was hammered out after an all-night series of meetings involving representatives from both leagues, who met both separately and jointly.

ABA Commissioner Dave DeBusschere said that there still was disagreement over several issues as late as 4:30 a.m., EDT. "At that point, we got to the definite bottom line," he said, "and that was as far as we would go. We felt at that time there was nothing further that could be done on our side."

DeBusschere also said the lengthy negotiations were, at times, "very dismal and discouraging. The general feeling of our group during many points while we were here was very low. But we stayed with it, and I am pleased that something was worked out between the leagues."

DeBusschere said he did not know what he would do in the future, but said he would still be working in the ABA office for three or four months in order to clear up the league's internal situation.

You can't fight a boilover after it happens.
Put in PRESTONE II® Coolant now.

A summer boilover can do more than ruin a car trip. It can ruin your engine.

Which means a boilover can be just as deadly as a winter freeze-up.

So if you think your coolant needs changing, don't wait for fall. Flush out your cooling system now. This weekend. And put in a fresh fill of PRESTONE II Coolant.

Because PRESTONE II, with its patented silicone-silicate formula, will help prevent boilovers and corrosion all summer long. (And it'll help prevent freeze-ups all winter, too.)

To make it even easier for you, we've outlined two simple steps for proper cooling system maintenance.

Follow them. It's a once-a-year job that takes twenty minutes—and it could save the life of your engine.

Step 1. Flushing.

Start with PRESTONE 10-Minute Radiator Flush. Just pour it in, run your engine for 10 minutes and drain...you'll flush any rusty and worn out coolant from your radiator.

For thorough flushing, we recommend the PRESTONE Flush 'N Fill Kit. It takes a few minutes to install and it lets you reverse flush your entire cooling system in about 5 minutes.

(And keep in mind that reverse flushing is the only way to properly flush your entire cooling system—engine, heater, and radiator.)

Step 2.
Put in 50% PRESTONE II Coolant.

Check your owner's manual for your car's cooling system capacity and pour in enough PRESTONE II (2 gallons for most cars) for a 50-50 mix with water.

That solution, with a 15 lb. radiator pressure cap, will raise the boiling point of your coolant to 265°F.

Now bring on the hot weather. You're ready for it.

Dockins to play at Hannibal-LaGrange JC

Harold Dockins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill H. McDowell of 105 Grove St. in Sikeston, has received an athletic scholarship to attend Hannibal-LaGrange Junior College in Hannibal, Mo.

Dockins started at guard for the 1975-76 Sikeston Bulldogs, leading them to a 21-6 record, best in the school's history. He averaged over 13 points and four assists pergame, hitting 49.5 percent of his floor shots and 69.6 percent from the free throw line.

At 5-foot-10 and 165 pounds, the 18-year-old athlete is expected to play guard for his new team.

As a junior, Dockins averaged 4.6 points per contest, hitting 44.2 percent from the floor. He scored 416 points wearing a Bulldog uniform. Sikeston's record was 36-19 while he was a varsity player.

First National still unbeaten

First National teams remained undefeated after Wednesday's Girl's softball action. Strickland also remained undefeated after Wednesday's games.

Daily Standard lost their first game of the season in the Major Division Wednesday night as they lost a see-saw battle to First National. First National barely remained undefeated with a last inning rally to win 11-10.

Daily Standard was poised to defeat their opponent and did their best but couldn't hold on to two run lead through the last two innings.

First National jumped to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first but Daily Standard took a 2-1 lead in the top of the second which was short lived as the home team came right back to score two more. After First National built up a 6-4 lead in the bottom of the third Standard erupted for six runs in the top of the fourth and looked as if they were to be sure winners but their defense gave way as First National cut the lead to one, 10-9 and tied the game with a run in the bottom of the sixth and held Daily Standard scoreless over the last three innings with good defense to give them a chance to win with a run in the home half of the seventh.

Both teams managed eight safeties in the right game. Regina Brown and Shipp collected two hits apiece including a double apiece for Daily Standard. Karen Hart and Lisa Brown banged out two hits apiece for the winners.

In the other Major division game Sikeston IGA ripped Mid-Delta Ins. 17-9. Mid-Delta took a 5-1 lead after two innings of play but couldn't hold back the big bats of Sikeston IGA as they banged out 13 hits in the game. Mid-Delta was held to only five hits by winning pitcher Allegra Morris. Lisa Greer was the losing pitcher.

Paula Northern was the leading hitter for Mid-Delta with three doubles in three times at bat. Lisa Wise led Sikeston IGA in hitting with three safeties.

The two games in Senior Division were runaways as Strickland romped over hapless Citizens' Bank 25-7 and First National had no trouble defeating Williams Bros. 19-3.

Strickland struck for 13 runs in the first inning to completely demoralize Citizen's Bank. Strickland collected 11 hits in the inning. Citizens Bank had rallied for four runs in the top of the first before the roof fell in on them.

Scott Co. Legion defeats Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF — Scott County Legion ran their American Legion baseball record to 7-2 on the season last night with a 4-1 victory over Poplar Bluff. Sikeston's Kevin Lasters relieved Chris Torbett on the mound in the third inning and hurled seven innings of shutout baseball to get the victory.

The hard-throwing lefthander allowed just two hits and three walks over the final seven stanzas while striking out eight.

Poplar Bluff had taken a 1-0 lead in the second when singles by Jones and Armes produced the first run of the game. But Scott County came right back in the top of the third as Torbett's single scored Keith Campbell.

Scott County got two more in the fourth. James Berry of Lilbourn lined a basehit to drive home Ron Schlosser and Campbell and make it three more. The Scott Countian's added their final run in the ninth when Larry Jackson's baseknock drove home fellow Sikestonian Dale Deal.

Missourian Hale Irwin among favorites as U.S. Open begins

DULUTH, Ga. (AP) — Hale Irwin has a history of playing well on tough golf courses, although he's not sure why.

"I don't know if I play harder because the course is tougher or if the field just doesn't play as well as it normally does," Irwin said Wednesday on the eve of the 76th U.S. Open Golf Championship.

"But I like to respond to that challenge on a tough course. I think it's a day-to-day thing, though. The trick is to eliminate the bad errors."

The former University of Colorado football star has recorded most of his seven tour victories on courses considered difficult.

Twice he has captured the Heritage at Hilton Head. He won the 1974 U.S. Open at Winged Foot. He won twice last year on tough layouts — the Western Open at Butler National and the Atlanta Classic on the rolling hills of Atlanta Country Club. Irwin won at Los Angeles this year on the tough Riviera course.

The soft-spoken Missouri native faces another challenging course today, ranking among the favorites to win the first National Open ever held in the South.

This one is at the Atlanta Athletic Club, a 7,015-yard layout that plays to par 70.

"The U.S. Open course is always in the tough course category," Irwin said, "and this one is no exception."

Many of the 150 players entered have tabbed Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Irwin as the players to beat.

"You could throw in a whole bunch of other people," Irwin said. "Why not Johnny Miller? What about Ray Floyd? It's a good course for him. There are others, too.

"There's just no way to fairly predict anybody to win," he said. "This isn't like football. There you've got two teams and one has to win. There's just too many out here who can win."

Still, the man most will be watching is Nicklaus, acclaimed the game's greatest player today even though he isn't having a good year.

Nicklaus complained about "terrible" play on the eve of the tournament, but also said, "My game's in pretty good shape. I don't see any reason why I shouldn't play well. But, again, I don't know."

Lou Graham is the defending champion, but he has been virtually ignored in pre-tourney hoopla. The same can be said for Hubert Green, the only three-time winner on this year's tour and the leading money winner.

Irwin, Miller and Ben Crenshaw are the only two-time winners competing.

Many of the 150 players entered have tabbed Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Irwin as the players to beat.

"You could throw in a whole bunch of other people," Irwin said. "Why not Johnny Miller? What about Ray Floyd? It's a good course for him. There are others, too.

"There's just no way to fairly predict anybody to win," he said. "This isn't like football. There you've got two teams and one has to win. There's just too many out here who can win."

Still, the man most will be watching is Nicklaus, acclaimed the game's greatest player today even though he isn't having a good year.

Nicklaus complained about "terrible" play on the eve of the tournament, but also said, "My game's in pretty good shape. I don't see any reason why I shouldn't play well. But, again, I don't know."

Lou Graham is the defending champion, but he has been virtually ignored in pre-tourney hoopla. The same can be said for Hubert Green, the only three-time winner on this year's tour and the leading money winner.

Moonies spread word of their messiah

WASHINGTON (AP) — Well-scrubbed and smiling, young followers of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon are circulating on Capitol Hill, bearing gifts of flowers, fruit and ginseng tea and touting their messiah's ideas to congressmen.

Their spokesmen say the Moonies are there to spread the word of God. But critics say they are lobbying for the government of South Korea and mounting a public relations campaign for the Korean evangelist.

Their activities underline Moon's adeptness at blending his religion with politics.

"We cannot separate the political field from the religious world," he says. "Separation between religion and politics is what Satan likes most."

That philosophy would seem to run counter to the 1st Amendment to the U.S Constitution which separates church and state — the very statute that makes investigating Moon's activities difficult, government officials say.

Moon's followers haunt congressional offices, buttonholing members and their staffs and trying to sell them on the movement.

A Moonie named Susan Bergman made it to the Hill summit, becoming friends with House Speaker Carl Albert. She used to chat with him in his office several times a week.

A spokesman for Moon's Unification Church insist that the young people are not lobbyists, but rather "spiritual witnesses" asking congressmen "to seek God's guidance in making decisions."

Neil Salonen, president of the Unification Church in the United States, has told Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., that Church members have "never approached a senator or congressman on a political issue, a single bill."

But one former Moonie told a House subcommittee staffer that a primary mission of the Moon supporters on Capitol Hill was to promote economic and military aid to South Korea.

The 56-year-old Moon has become a millionaire industrialist under the regime of South Korean President Chung Hee Park.

Several members of Congress and staff members think the Moon Capitol Hill effort has a more subtle purpose: to cultivate a favorable attitude toward Moon and South Korea among Congress and the public.

That goal is more important than ever now since Moon, his church and several related organizations are threatened with investigation by government agencies.

A House subcommittee on international organizations will hold hearings Tuesday on possible ties between Moon and his closest associate with the South Korean government, particularly the Korean CIA.

The Internal Revenue Service has indicated it might investigate the tax-exempt status of the Unification Church, which acknowledges assets of $20 million in the United States alone.

And the Immigration and Naturalization Service has been asked by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., to investigate Moon's status as a permanent resident alien.

"If the Moonies can get members of Congress on their side, it gives them credibility with society and protection from government agencies," said a Senate staff member. "If they can say, 'This senator thinks we're great,' they think it might cause the IRS to back off."

Moon has had his picture taken with such senators as Strom Thurmond, James Buckley, Hubert H. Humphrey and Edward M. Kennedy. He then used some of the pictures in Church literature, implying he has the support of those members of Congress. That implication is totally false, spokesmen for the senators said.

A top assistant of one senator said he declined a Unification Church offer of an all-expenses trip to New York for the Moon Bicentennial Rally on June 1.

Ann Gordon, a former Moonie who worked on Capitol Hill last year, said 20 to 25 Church members were assigned a list of senators and congressmen to contact.

"PR members were to make gradual acquaintances and friendships with staff members and aides and eventually the congressmen and senators themselves, inviting them to a (hotel) suite ... where dinner and films or short lectures on Moon's ideas and accomplishments would be presented," Miss Gordon said. "All this effort is sort of an ongoing program by Moon to get political support for himself and the Chung Hee Park dictatorship in South Korea.

"We were told to be somewhat vague when dealing with Capitol Hill contacts in order to protect our presence there."

Miss Gordon said Susan Bergman was assigned to Carl Albert.

"When he toured Europe in the summer of 1975, she sent post cards ahead to each hotel on his itinerary, which she had gotten from his secretary," Miss Gordon said. "When Albert returned, he called her long distance ... to ask, 'Where is my friend Susan'?"

Miss Bergman's friendship with the speaker continued. Albert said that his friendship with the girl was innocent and that his opinions had not been swayed in any way by her.

Albert's press aide, Joe Foote, says he hasn't seen Miss Bergman recently around Albert's office, and Miss Bergman could not be reached for comment.

Moon once was quoted as telling a meeting of Unification Church directors, "Master needs many good-looking girls. He will assign three girls to one senator — that means we need 300. Let them have a good relationship with them. ... If our girls are superior to the senators in many ways, then the senators will be taken in by our members."

Asked about those remarks by Sen. Dole, Salonen said they were made "in a light vein. We have no immediate plan to do that. He simply meant that even if we have to bring three people to pray for one person, that's what we'll do. ... Those were just comments made to indicate that we want to support spiritually the leaders of this country."

None of Moon's critics on Capitol Hill have heard of any use of sex by Moon supporters to influence members of Congress or staffers.

A key element of the Moon theology is the predicted Second Coming of Christ in Korea. Moon's followers are encouraged to believe he is the new messiah, although he has not specifically said so.

According to this doctrine, a world family will be created with the Second Coming, dedicated to establishing the kingdom of heaven. Communism is the main obstacle to those goals.

Moon has made no secret of his dedication to the cause of South Korea. "According to the will of God, the United States must safeguard Korea, not for Korea's sake or for the United States' sake, but for the sake of the will of God," he said in a speech last December at the Capitol.

But the exact nature of Moon's ties with the totalitarian Park regime are unclear. Also cloudy is the question of whether the Moon groups have violated statutes regarding the political activities of tax-exempt organizations or registration as foreign agents.

The evangelist's followers have made a concerted effor to stop any investigation of the Unification Church, claiming a violation of the First Amendment's freedom of religious expression provision.

Most members of Congress are wary about taking action against Moon and his movement precisely because of the First Amendment.

Richard Mauzy, a staff member of the House subcommittee investigating Moon's political acitivites, said, "We're very sensitive to the First Amendment."

Calls hearing today in New York

Kuhn halts sale of Oakland trio

NEW YORK (AP) — Marvin Miller once asked of the baseball owners' individual and sometimes conflicting ways: "Who's going to protect the owners from themselves?"

It may be Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn, wondering if there might be something rotten in his kingdom, called for a hearing in New York today to discuss Charles O. Finley's sale of three of his top players from the Oakland A's, a sale that brought shrill cries of agony from fans and other club owners alike.

But Kuhn did more than just call together the principles involved. He halted the sale of pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for a reported $1.5 million and the sale of pitcher Rollie Fingers and outfielder Joe Rudi to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million apiece, and kept them on the Oakland roster.

Like it or not, Finley still owns the trio — at the moment. And, by order of the commissioner, he can't use them.

"The Blue-Fingers-Rudi assignments by the Oakland club raise questions that I feel require a hearing," Kuhn said in a teletyped notice to all 24 major league clubs. "Accordingly, I will hold a hearing ... at 2:30 p.m. in this office. The Oakland, New York and Boston clubs and Marvin Miller have been asked to attend." Miller is executive director of the players union.

And the last segment of Kuhn's teletype said: "Pending final determination of what action, if any, I should take, the three players involved will remain on the active list of the Oakland club but may not appear in uniform or participate in Oakland games."

Miller spent part of Wednesday debating issues with John Gaherin, bargaining agent for the owners. A major topic of discussion was Finley's fire sale.

The owners and Gaherin have taken the position voiced by Minnesota Twins boss Calvin Griffith, who said:

"I think it's a terrible thing when two clubs go out and start bidding to see who can buy a championship team. I think this shows that what the owners have been saying about the wealthy clubs getting the top players is true.

"It just shows how necessary a reserve system is if we are going to have fair competition."

Miller says he doesn't understand what the owners are talking about.

"I'm puzzled. What's so bad for baseball?" Miller asked. "I don't know what it means that they're concerned about balanced competition.

"The Yankees haven't won a pennant in 12 years and the Red Sox have never won the World Series."

Miller pointed out that the A's have won the American League West the past five years, Baltimore has won the AL East five of the past seven years, Cincinnati has won the National League West four of the past six years, and Pittsburgh has taken the NL East five of the last six years.

"So that's the great balance they're worried about disturbing," Miller said. "Look what's happening to the competitive balance. Apparently, Oakland will not repeat. But the A's chose to sell their players for cash."

Dambach honored

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Grant Dambach of Lilbourn, a junior at Southeast Missouri State University, has been named as second baseman on the National Tournament all-star team on the baiss of his play in the national finals of the NCAA, division two tournament. This event was held in Springfield, Ill. June 5 through June 9.

Before qualifying for the national tournament, the SEMO State Indians had won the MIAA confeence championship and the Midwest Regional tournament which was held in St. Louis.

The Indians won third place in the National tournament with first place being taken by Cal-Poly of Pomona, Calif.

Dambach had earlier been chosen as all-star second baseman for his conference by coaches of the MIAA.

Busch backs up Finley

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The president of the St. Louis Cardinals, August A. Busch Jr., said Wednesday he supports Charles Finley's controversial Tuesday night trades.

"If I were in his position," Busch said. "I'd do the same thing."

Finley, owner of the Oakland A's, shocked baseball by trading three of his stars, outfielder Joe Rudi and pitchers Rollie Fingers and Vida Blue, for $3.5 million. The three refused to sign contracts and were playing out their options.

Busch and Finley opposed opening baseball camps last spring, even after commissioner Bowie Kuhn ordered the lockout ended.

"I still insist the owners are jackasses in not having a contract settled, signed and delivered," said the chairman of the board of Anheuser-Busch, Inc.

No agreement is yet in sight between owners and players.

"I don't know what the penalty is, but with no agreement, the Cardinals will not train next spring," Busch said.

"We have to stop this nonsense," he said. "It costs a family of four $32 to come to our games, buy hot dogs and soda and pay for parking.

"To me baseball is in real honest-to-goodness trouble," Busch said. "I wish I knew the answer. But you can't increase ticket prices and make the fans pay for the outlandish sums of money being thrown around."

Calls hearing today in New York

Kuhn halts sale of Oakland trio

NEW YORK (AP) — Marvin Miller once asked of the baseball owners' individual and sometimes conflicting ways: "Who's going to protect the owners from themselves?"

It may be Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn, wondering if there might be something rotten in his kingdom, called for a hearing in New York today to discuss Charles O. Finley's sale of three of his top players from the Oakland A's, a sale that brought shrill cries of agony from fans and other club owners alike.

But Kuhn did more than just call together the principles involved. He halted the sale of pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for a reported $1.5 million and the sale of pitcher Rollie Fingers and outfielder Joe Rudi to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million apiece, and kept them on the Oakland roster.

Like it or not, Finley still owns the trio — at the moment. And, by order of the commissioner, he can't use them.

"The Blue-Fingers-Rudi assignments by the Oakland club raise questions that I feel require a hearing," Kuhn said in a teletyped notice to all 24 major league clubs. "Accordingly, I will hold a hearing ... at 2:30 p.m. in this office. The Oakland, New York and Boston clubs and Marvin Miller have been asked to attend." Miller is executive director of the players union.

And the last segment of Kuhn's teletype said: "Pending final determination of what action, if any, I should take, the three players involved will remain on the active list of the Oakland club but may not appear in uniform or participate in Oakland games."

Miller spent part of Wednesday debating issues with John Gaherin, bargaining agent for the owners. A major topic of discussion was Finley's fire sale.

The owners and Gaherin have taken the position voiced by Minnesota Twins boss Calvin Griffith, who said:

"I think it's a terrible thing when two clubs go out and start bidding to see who can buy a championship team. I think this shows that what the owners have been saying about the wealthy clubs getting the top players is true.

"It just shows how necessary a reserve system is if we are going to have fair competition."

Miller says he doesn't understand what the owners are talking about.

"I'm puzzled. What's so bad for baseball?" Miller asked. "I don't know what it means that they're concerned about balanced competition.

"The Yankees haven't won a pennant in 12 years and the Red Sox have never won the World Series."

Miller pointed out that the A's have won the American League West the past five years, Baltimore has won the AL East five of the past seven years, Cincinnati has won the National League West four of the past six years, and Pittsburgh has taken the NL East five of the last six years.

"So that's the great balance they're worried about disturbing," Miller said. "Look what's happening to the competitive balance. Apparently, Oakland will not repeat. But the A's chose to sell their players for cash."

Boys State hosts political open house

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Boys State held open house Tuesday night for politicians, but only Mayor Charles B. Wheeler Jr., of Kansas City showed up.

Wheeler described himself to the assembly of young men at the week long exercise in government as the "most moderate" of all the candidates for the U.S. Senate from Missouri.

He also criticized his opponents for the Democratic nomination to the Senate for failing to appear, and for being "afraid to speak out against the abusive labor leadership."

Boys State hosts political open house

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Boys State held open house Tuesday night for politicians, but only Mayor Charles B. Wheeler Jr., of Kansas City showed up.

Wheeler described himself to the assembly of young men at the week long exercise in government as the "most moderate" of all the candidates for the U.S. Senate from Missouri.

He also criticized his opponents for the Democratic nomination to the Senate for failing to appear, and for being "afraid to speak out against the abusive labor leadership."

Man behind the comics

A 'born loser' that made good!

THE BORN LOSER — by Art Sansom

By R. Terrance Roskin
(First in a Series)

He's a portrait of confidence as he peers out over the wheel of his canary colored Sting Ray, not the least of his symbols of success. It's difficult to imagine the days when Art Sansom seemed to be just another born loser.

Sansom is the creator of the comic tribulations of Brutus Thornapple in The Born Loser, one of North America's top comic strips in reader popularity. The overnight success for Sansom and The Born Loser, introduced by NEA in 1965, came at the end of a 20 year night.

Sansom first approached NEA with a strip in 1945 as a moonlighting project while working as an engineering draftsman.

"They didn't buy the strip but they did hire me," Sansom says. "I spent the next three or four years stealing paper clips from the company and working as a staff artist."

Thus began 20 years of dabbling in rubber cement and helping in the production of other men's strips. Then came The Born Loser.

Beyond the importance of The Born Loser's high rank in polls and surveys, the strip attracts the critical acclaim of Sansom's peers and competitors. Brutus Thornapple's world combines linear simplicity and precise character facial expression. "Art's strips are designed, not drawn," says an associate.

Q: How important is the art in The Born Loser's success?

A: Really, I see the art work as being secondary. Gags — that's where it's at. If I had to attribute the success of The Born Loser to one thing, it would be that in 10 years of doing the strip I've never once turned in a gag that I didn't think was a good one.

Q: Do you buy many gags to maintain such consistency?

A: Frankly, I don't understand why anybody buys gags. Most of the gags submitted just aren't funny enough. A cartoon ought to reflect your characters' personalities, something you don't get with submitted gags. Also, I'm too cheap to pay that kind of money.

Which is not to say I don't have help. I have the sharpest minds in captivity working for me. I have quite a few friends around town — creative people — and we get together about once a week. It costs me a lot in martinis. At the end of a session I have maybe 10 or 12 ideas. Out of those ideas maybe I'll get six or seven good gags that I can use."

Q: What's your studio and studio routine like?

A: The studio is a cozy place. With everything in it. Air conditioner, television, bar. I spend a lot of time there. I work in a pair of shorts. Period. Clothes are too confining. Bare feet and a pair of shorts, winter and summer.

I spend Monday through Wednesday compiling gags, writing them, re-writing them, discarding some, filing some for future reference, though I never use them.

On Thursday I write the final form of six weekly gags and the Sunday strips. On Friday I draw the six daily gags, which I ink in on Saturday. On Sunday I draw and ink the Sunday page. That doesn't allow a hell of a lot of other time, but I manage to steal a few hours here and there for golf."

Q: You seem a little defensive about your workload.

A: You'd be surprised how many people ask "What do you do for a living?" and when I tell them I draw a comic strip they say "What else do you do?" Believe me, drawing a comic strip is a seven-day-a-week job. The cartoonist's life has been portrayed as being glamorous. It's not. There are great things. If you stay on schedule you have no one to answer to. You make good money if you're good at it. The main thing is you set your own hours. You don't have to start working until late in the afternoon if you're willing to work until 3 a.m. to finish."

Q: Apparently you don't miss the office routine.

A: "Working at home has added years to my life. I'm serious about that. Unless your job absolutely requires your being in an office, that scene is really for the birds. I am not the nine-to-five cat — couldn't punch a time clock if my life depended on it. There was a time when I had to, but even then I got in late and left early. Who needs a half dozen coffee breaks and some clown looking over your shoulder? There's just too much distraction. I'm sure I couldn't go back into an office and successfully do The Born Loser."

Q: Your strips seldom involve current events. Why?

A: "Look, I leave current events to Jim Berry (creator of the award-winning Berry's World). My stuff is escape humor. People today are confronted with too many troubles in the world. Domestic troubles, foreign troubles. I think comics should be an escape valve. Comics are there for one reason, to give people a quick chuckle.

As far as any great message, I say forget it, at least in my strip. It should be entertainment. When I was a kid, a comic strips were the only visual means of home entertainment.

Comics slipped very badly in the 1950s, perhaps because of the initial competition of television. But they have made a sensational comeback during the 60s and 70s. They are almost as big as they ever were. That's because the strips today are far superior to the old days. The public demands a superior level of humor in comics today. I really believe comics have stood the test of time. They're here to stay."

ART SANSOM: No message, just entertainment.

4-H'ers Help Boost Dairy Month

Dairy Month gives 4-H'ers a chance to help focus public attention on the importance of America's dairy industry. More than 91,000 young people 9-19 participate in the national 4-H dairy program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service and sponsored by Insurance Company of North America.

CHICAGO — More than 91,000 4-H'ers will be busy this June helping to promote Dairy Month. They're members of the national 4-H dairy program, and they're convinced of the importance of America's dairy industry.

"We need milk or other dairy products every day for good nutrition," says 4-H'er Larry Grim, 17, of Nampa, Idaho. Last year Grim won a national 4-H dairy scholarship donated by Insurance Company of North America.

"The only way to assure wholesome products for the consumer is to have clean, healthy, well-fed animals," he says. "And it's the only way to make dairying profitable."

ACROSS THE COUNTRY 4-H dairymen 9-19 learn-by-doing to apply sanitation principles and sound management practices to the care of one or more dairy animals.

In practical projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H'ers also discover how dairy products are marketed, processed and distributed.

Many 4-H members find satisfaction in fitting and showing dairy animals, and in serving on judging teams locally, statewide or even nationally.

TO RECOGNIZE achievement in the 4-H dairy program, Insurance Company of North America offers a series of awards to outstanding 4-H members through the National 4-H Service Committee.

Up to four 4-H'ers per county are eligible for medals of honor, and one member in each state receives an expense-paid trip to the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Chicago.

Six national winners, to be announced during Congress, receive $800 college scholarships. All winners are selected by the Extension Service.

GOV. EDMUND BROWN Jr., climaxing his late-starting presidential effort with a home-state California primary victory, denies he is part of a stop-Carter drive. He says his is a "start-America" campaign.

Many 4-H members find satisfaction in fitting and showing dairy animals, and in serving on judging teams locally, statewide or even nationally.

TO RECOGNIZE achievement in the 4-H dairy program, Insurance Company of North America offers a series of awards to outstanding 4-H members through the National 4-H Service Committee.

Up to four 4-H'ers per county are eligible for medals of honor, and one member in each state receives an expense-paid trip to the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Chicago.

Six national winners, to be announced during Congress, receive $800 college scholarships. All winners are selected by the Extension Service.

GOV. EDMUND BROWN Jr., climaxing his late-starting presidential effort with a home-state California primary victory, denies he is part of a stop-Carter drive. He says his is a "start-America" campaign.

RESOLUTION

A RESOLUTION DECLARING THE NECESSITY FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF ONE AND ONE-HALF INCH HOTMIX ASPHALTIC PAVEMENT ON SIX INCH SOIL CEMENT BASE OR FOUR INCH COMPACTED GRANULAR BASE MEETING STATE HIGHWAY SPECIFICATIONS WITH CONCRETE CURB AND GUTTERS ON FUCHS STREET FROM THE NORTH SIDE OF OSAGE STREET TO THE SOUTH SIDE OF NORTH STREET IN THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI; STATING THE NATURE OF THE IMPROVEMENT; THE ESTIMATED COST AND PROVIDING THAT PAYMENT FOR ALL OF THE IMPROVEMENT SHALL BE MADE BY SPECIAL TAX BILLS LEVIED AND ASSESSED AGAINST THE ABUTTING PROPERTY.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SIKESTON, STATE OF MISSOURI AS FOLLOWS—

Section 1—That the Council of the said improvement, in accordance with plans and specifications necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston.

Section 2—That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials, and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement.

Section 3—That the estimated cost of the improvement is $8.00 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement.

Section 4—That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the Statutes of the State of Missouri and the Ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council, the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement.

Section 5—That any work performed on constructionof the improvement shallbe in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri.

Section 6—That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions.

Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of Juhe, 1976.

WANT ADS: SERVING AMERICA FROM THE BEGINNING

Your BANKAMERICARD welcome here. master charge

Independence Hall in Philadelphia was the scene of the proclamation of the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776. It was also the meeting place of the Continental Congress and the Constitutional Convention. While the "Miracle of Philadelphia" was taking place in this historic hall, another miracle of sorts was occurring in Colonial newspapers. Want Ads were appearing in those early papers, serving the needs and wants of the citizenry, just as they do today.

2. Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere gratitude for all the kindnesses and courtesies extended to us at the passing of our loved one, Dorothy Beggs. We also wish to thank those who visited in the hospital and the staff of Mo. Delta Community Hospital. A special thanks to Dr. A.P. Sargent. We thank those who assisted at the services, the trio, and the Revs. Noah Cox and Jimmy Edmundson, those who sent the lovely flowers and thoughtful gifts of food. We appreciate the kindness of the staff of the Nunnelee funeral home. In memory of our loved one--the family of Dorothy Beggs.

WANT ADS: SERVING AMERICA FROM THE BEGINNING

Independence Hall in Philadelphia was the scene of the proclamation of the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776. It was also the meeting place of the Continental Congress and the Constitutional Convention. While the "Miracle of Philadelphia" was taking place in this historic hall, another miracle of sorts was occurring in Colonial newspapers. Want Ads were appearing in those early papers, serving the needs and wants of the citizenry, just as they do today.

2. Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere gratitude for all the kindnesses and courtesies extended to us at the passing of our loved one, Dorothy Beggs. We also wish to thank those who visited in the hospital and the staff of Mo. Delta Community Hospital. A special thanks to Dr. A.P. Sargent. We thank those who assisted at the services, the trio, and the Revs. Noah Cox and Jimmy Edmundson, those who sent the lovely flowers and thoughtful gifts of food. We appreciate the kindness of the staff of the Nunnelee funeral home. In memory of our loved one--the family of Dorothy Beggs.

Ozarks folks await tourist

Once there was time for Ozarks folks to just sit and enjoy the strains of a dulcimer at mid-day. Here, it's a brief pause before another busy tourist season for Shad and Mollie Heller at their Wilderness Settlement, west of Branson. Music is by dulcimer craftsman Buzz Darby. Looking on are Gary Baker, leatherworker, and Wayne Haymes, blacksmith. They are among a dozen crafts folks in residence at the Settlement. The attraction also is the home of the Ozark Blacksmith Guild, its foundry and the Corn Crib Theatre.

Pioneer Festival is scheduled at Wickliffe

WICKLIFFE, Ky. — The pioneer spirit will come alive in Wickliffe, Saturday, as a Pioneer Festival will be staged in the area around the Ballard County Courthouse.

Festivities will begin with a flag-raising ceremony at 10 a.m.

Many kinds of crafts will be displayed at the festival site. One can see quilting, wood carving, knitting, basket weaving, handmade clay pottery, paper quiling, water witching, dried flower arranging, apple butter cooking, cornhusk, apple and bread dough dolls, charcoal drawings, rughooking, how to smoke a corn cob pipe, how to churn butter, weaving and tole painting.

Judy Magee, editor of the local newspaper, the Advance-Yeoman, and her staff will have an open house from 2 to 3 p.m. There will be a tour of the office and a demonstration of printing techniques. Mrs. Magee will display her books, Ballard's Brave Boys and Old Ford Jefferson and will autograph copies.

Items that will be offered for sale include: antiques, bonnets, tri-corner hats, cornhusk dolls and flowers, spice ropes, quilts, bylo baby dolls, flower arrangements, patchwork pillows, tole painted trays, flags and candles.

Day-long activities are planned for both children and adults. In a rope area in front of the First Baptist Church, there will be jump rope, horse shoes, haystack surprise, apple bobbing, London Bridge, magic show, leap frog, marbles and cart and pony ride for the youngsters.

Races and contests will be held every hour in such activities as hoop rolling, frog jumping, sack hop and turtle race.

Adults may participate in a cake walk, a rocking chair marathon, tobacco spitting contest, pitching horse shoes, three-legged race, rope pull, washer pitching, buggy ride and a checkers tournament. County officials have been asked jto compete in a cow milking exhibition.

The Williamsburg movie, "Making of a Patriot," starring Jack Lord, will be shown from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission will be free.

Drawings for prizes, which will include a Newton Belt painting and a Harper ham, will be held throughout the day..

Authentic costumes for adults and children will be judged and awards presented between 10 and 11 a.m. Visitors are encouraged to wear Bicentennial outfits, but may feel free to come dressed in any style.

Food will be in abundance. A local restaurant, the Coffee Shop, in cooperation with the organizers, will be serving a meal of Brunswick stew, cornbread and cobbler. Buffalo burgers will be available. Organizers managed to make arrangements with a buffalo rancher to get this rare delicacy. There will also be an ice cream social and baked goods.

Musical entertainment will be featured throughout the day at the bandstand. The Ballard Memorial High School marching patriots will have a concert at 4:30 p.m.

The day will conclude with a street dance to be held from 7 to 10 p.m. in front of the Wickliffe fire station.
